New Deal Papers Back 'Truman Resign' Suggestion

GOP's Bitter Clashes With Wilson Cited

President and Republicans Face Choice Between Cooperation and Confusion.

NEW YORK—(UP)—President Truman and the Republican leaders of the newly elected opposition congress faced a choice today between cooperation or confusion in government.

The hard facts of precedent promise little cooperation. The last time the voters sent a Republican congress to Washington to help a Democratic president run the nation, the result was the bitterest kind of political conflict.

That was in 1918 when Republicans won the senate and house midway in Woodrow Wilson's last presidential term. Political differences became personal hatreds and the bitterness did not end until the principal actors, one by one, were dead and buried.

Democratic campaigners warned the voters that election of a Republican congress would paralyze the national government.

Returns from the Republican landslide still were being tabulated when there developed a scattering of Democratic suggestions that President Truman deal with the situation by resigning in favor of a Republican.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, (D-Ark.), made the suggestion. It was editorially endorsed by the pro-administration Chicago Sun. Next support came from the Democratic Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution.

Kalis Case Studied By Grand Jury

The Richland county grand jury convened today to consider two first-degree murder charges against Michael Kalis, 52-year-old steelworker, and charges against eight or nine other defendants.

Kalis is accused of fatally shooting his wife, Helen, and son, John, in a quarrel Oct. 17 at the family home, 388 Spring-mill street.

Assistant County Prosecutor Claude F. Ewing said the jury should conclude its hearing today.

Meanwhile, Howard Nichols, 20-year-old Ohio State reformatory inmate convicted of the second degree murder of Janvare Bruck, 19, another OSR prisoner, last July 18, has been sentenced to the penitentiary for life.

Common Pleas Judge C. E. Kalbfleisch sentenced Nichols after refusing him a new trial.

Still to be heard in connection with the fatal stabbing of Bruck in a supper line-up at OSR is the case of Lewis Murtion, 20, also indicted for second degree murder.

Murtion, who is to be defended by Atty. John L. Catlett, will be tried Nov. 12.

There were still no trial dates for the cases of Ellsworth Moyer, 32, of Galion, and John C. Laughlin, 263 South Main street, both charged with rape with consent.

Moyer recently was acquitted by a three-judge court of charges of rape without consent of the 12-year-old girl who is the complaining witness in the currently pending case. Laughlin, who will be defended by Catlett, is accused of raping a 13-year-old girl.

Board Begins Check of Votes Cast Tuesday

A formal check of the precinct poll books against the unofficial summary sheets which gave the public its first news of the election results Tuesday night was begun by board of elections workers today.

George C. Balliet, chairman of the board, said the board has five days in which to make the official count before results are certified to the secretary of state.

After certification is made candidates have five more days in which to file applications for recounts in precincts where they believe a new count might show some errors.

However, practically no races were so close that the change of a few votes would alter the outcome. Lone exception is the contest in Mansfield between Gov. Frank J. Lausche and Thomas J. Herbert for the gubernatorial post.

That race in the city ended with Herbert on top by one vote, 6,508 to 6,507. The GOP candidate, however, carried the county with a margin of 847 votes.

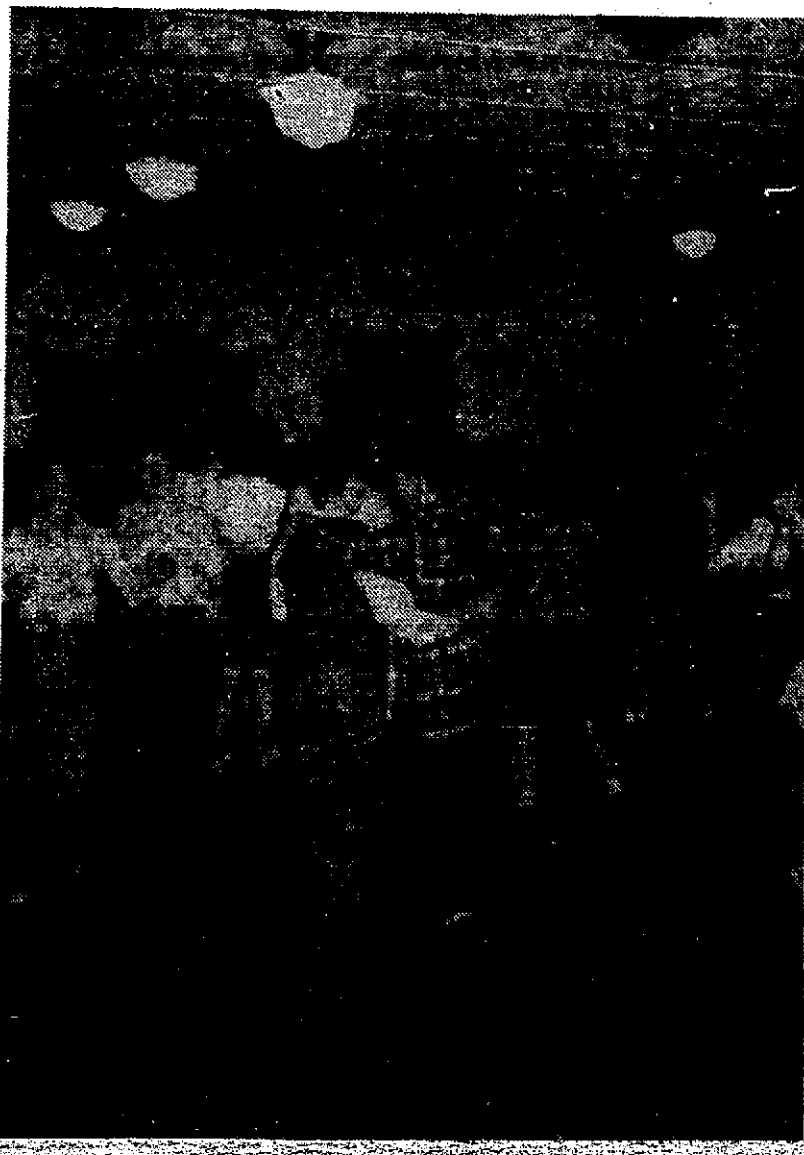

Final Grid Rally Slated Tonight

Final Tiger booster club football rally of the 1946 season is scheduled for tonight at 7 o'clock in Senior high school.

Indoor portion of the rally will feature the movies of the Mansfield-Massillon game with comment by Coach Paul Snyder and scouting report on Youngstown Rayen by Fred Staub. A giant pep rally at Stadium field will follow at 7:45.

The public is invited.

DANCING LESSONS—The dream of "Hep-Cat" Teen-age club at Liberty park has come true. Started last night at the park pavilion by the park association and the auxiliary to "provide wholesome entertainment," the dancing lessons will continue each Wednesday night for 10 weeks. A view of the crowd of 74 boys and girls, from 14 to 18 years of age, which packed the pavilion, is shown at left below, while 16-year-olds Richard Lannan, advisory committee member of the "Hep-Cat" club, and Eileen Marshall practice a fundamental box step under the guidance of Miss Jean Schill, instructor. DISAGREEMENTS MAR CALM OF U. N. PARLEYS

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(INS)—Ill-concealed differences among the 51 member governments of the United Nations smoldered into flames today in all directions.

Soviet Russia was out in the open with a demand that hostile refugee nationals be returned to her—for what ultimate purpose undisclosed.

Post-war persecution of Jews in Central Europe and the Holy Land area was up for debate.

Smaller nations were demanding that the United States pay half the cost of running the United Nations, despite the American delegation's insistence it would not handle more than 25 per cent.

The question of racial discrimination was up, with a thinly veiled threat that the United States might suddenly find itself involved.

A major battle was in progress over the veto power of the big five—the United States, Russia, Great Britain, France and China.

Six major committees of the UN general assembly were wrestling with these problems. Debate in each was prolonged and acrimonious. Division of opinion found the western powers as usual lined up against the Soviet bloc—but in recent hours that alignment has been split on various issues.

Soviet Vice Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky spoke, late yesterday for more than an hour demanding that war refugees "with special aims and those who make their way into the ranks of refugees in order to prevent repatriation" be excluded from world aid.

74 Youngsters Open Teen-Age Club at Park

By MARGUERITE MILLER

Give us someplace to dance! the teen-agers have begged. Give us a soft drink bar and pleasant surroundings and your "juvenile problem" will be solved, they said.

The Liberty Park and Civic association has done just that.

Last night, 74 boys and girls, from 14 to 18, received their first dancing lesson and gained confidence because someone was interested in them—because the Park association and auxiliary backed their "Hep-Cat" Teen-age club.

A few pairs of feet had a little difficulty mastering the fundamental steps on the park pavilion floor, but agility increased and shyness decreased as the evening went on. Inspired by their teacher, Miss Jean Schill, who is not far past the teen-age herself, the timid and bashful were choosing partners and even "cutting in" on their friends by the time the lesson ended at 8 p. m.

Pay for Records.

At 10 or 12, these young people might have side-stepped the dancing lessons. But now they realize that social dancing is part of the modern-day scheme. Each Wednesday night for 10 weeks they'll receive instruction. Cost of the entire course to them is 50 cents, which will pay for the phonograph records they request.

Along with this 50 cents, they receive a membership card which entitles them to practice their two steps at the pavilion, for five hours after the instruction session from 7 to 8 p. m.

There was little "horse-play" last night. The youngsters came to learn and they were serious about it.

In between dances, they lined up double file for cokes and potato chips at the refreshment stand.

WORKERS SHARE $40,000 FUND AT DOMINION

More than 150 employees of the Dominion Electrical Manufacturing company, Inc. will share approximately $40,000 this Christmas under a profit-sharing plan, company officials announced today.

The cash distribution, which hereafter will be made each Christmas to participants in the program, was made possible by a Treasury department ruling announced recently in Washington.

The profit-sharing plan was established at Dominion five years ago, and at that time the Treasury department required that annual contributions to the fund be made for 10 years. After that period of time, 10 per cent of the accumulated contributions, plus interest, would be paid out each year.

The Treasury department now has given permission to distribute the accumulated fund—some $225,000—to participants over the next five years.

Under the plan, a certain per cent of the company's profits are set aside annually. Employees' eligibility is based on three years' employment with the company as of July 1 preceding the Christmas on which the bonus is paid, Sam Shapiro, personnel manager, said.

The fund is under the trusteeship of the Farmers Savings and Trust company of Mansfield.

SHANGHAI MAYOR TO DIE

NANKING—(UP)—The puppet mayor of Shanghai, Chou Fu-Hai, today was sentenced to death for treason.

Herbert Sees Economy Move As Prime Duty

State Voters Go 'All-Out' In Giving Full Power to Republicans.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio Republicans, suddenly finding themselves given almost all they asked of the state's voters, were concerned today with a favorite topic—state and national tax reduction.

John W. Bricker, Republican senator-elect and a 1948 presidential possibility, and George Bender, re-elected to the state's at-large seat in congress, joined Thomas J. Herbert, Ohio's 1947-48 governor, in promises to work toward lower taxes.

Herbert committed himself yesterday, soon after he had defeated Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche by a thin 38,000 votes, to an attempt "to straighten out Ohio's tax muddle." He mentioned specifically a possible one-cent cut in the three per cent retail sales tax.

Bricker, three-time governor of Ohio and unsuccessful Republican vice presidential nominee in 1944, declared that "there should be a cut in the federal income tax so people can have more use of their own money. Taxes now are stifling private enterprise."

George Bender, re-elected to the congressman-at-large post by a 1,276,560 to 871,190 margin over State Sen. William M. Boyd of Cleveland, declared, however, that "before there can be any tax reduction, we must cut federal expenses."

Late Cash Hikes Fund To $97,002

Clean-up tabulations on Mansfield's recent Community Fund drive yesterday boosted the final receipts to $97,002, or three and one-half per cent above the goal of $94,067.

The final report includes $1,127 collected since the drive officially closed Oct. 28 after a five-day extension.

The uptown total of $47,742 put this division more than 65 per cent of its $31,067 goal, while industry attained 78 per cent of the $63,000 goal with a total of $47,260.

Commenting on the outcome of the annual campaign, W. E. Slabaugh, Jr., general chairman, said that Mansfield compares "favorably" with other cities of similar population. Those Ohio cities and towns which have exceeded their Community Fund quotas by as much as eight per cent are: Dayton, Elyria, Fremont, Hamilton, Lorain, Ashland, Sidney, Toledo and Zanesville.

Cleveland was the only large city in Ohio which failed to attain the goal. Columbus went over its goal by four per cent and Akron exceeded its quota by two per cent.

Slabaugh said that a few scattered cards are still being expected at the Community Fund office. The last industry to make its quota was the Mansfield Tire & Rubber company, which turned in enough additional pledges this week to bring the firm's total to $11,200.

CENTER YULE LIGHTS IN PARK

Mansfield's Central park will be transformed into a red and green wonderland again Thanksgiving day when some 3,000 electric light bulbs and several hundred feet of laurel rope will be spread over the park to usher in the Christmas shopping season.

V. H. Lodde, secretary of the Retail Merchants' association, said today that the shortage of electrical equipment prevents decoration of a larger city area. Decorations were concentrated on the park last year due to an inability to replace worn-out laurel.

The Christmas committee of the merchants' association is working on the decorations now, with all efforts bent on having the lights up by Thanksgiving. Lodde said. "All we need now is the cooperation of the business men in the city to help finance the program."

He added that the park decorations brought favorable comment from both business men and citizens last year, and that this year's decorations will follow the same pattern. Lodde said the fountain in the park, decorated as a bell last year, will again be the central theme, with laurel roping leading through the park to the lamp posts surrounding it.

The decorations will remain up until Jan. 1, Lodde said.

WORKER FATALLY INJURED IN FALL

Howard McGee, 45, an employee of the Ideal Electric company, died in a Columbus hospital yesterday of injuries received at the Mansfield plant Tuesday.

Mr. McGee was fatally hurt when he fell 10 feet to the ground from a box car in which he had been working, physicians said. He was taken to the Mansfield General hospital and from there to the White Cross hospital in Columbus for brain surgery.

Mr. McGee, a native of Tunnelton, W. Va., had been employed by the Mansfield firm for only three weeks. He is survived by four children in West Virginia. The body was taken to Tunnelton for burial.

Hunters Rescue Injured Mansfield Couple Lying Helpless In Snowbank After Crash

The narrow escape of a Mansfield couple whose automobile was wrecked in a sudden Wyoming snowstorm and who lay in a snowbank, seriously injured, for two hours before they were removed to the nearest town 50 miles away was disclosed today.

Mrs. Roy Metz, 514 Clifton boulevard, South Boulevard, said her son-in-law, Navy Petty Officer Charles Quicksall, 22, and her daughter, Mildred, 21, were in "fair" condition in a hospital at Kemmerer, Wyo.

The accident occurred Oct. 27 when the automobile in which Mr. and Mrs. Quicksall were riding crashed into a car after a tire blew out during a blinding snowstorm.

Hearing the noise of the crash, nearby duckhunters arrived on the scene a few minutes later and found the couple near the wrecked car.

The hunters wrapped the Quicksalls in blankets to protect them from near-zero temperatures and rushed for aid.

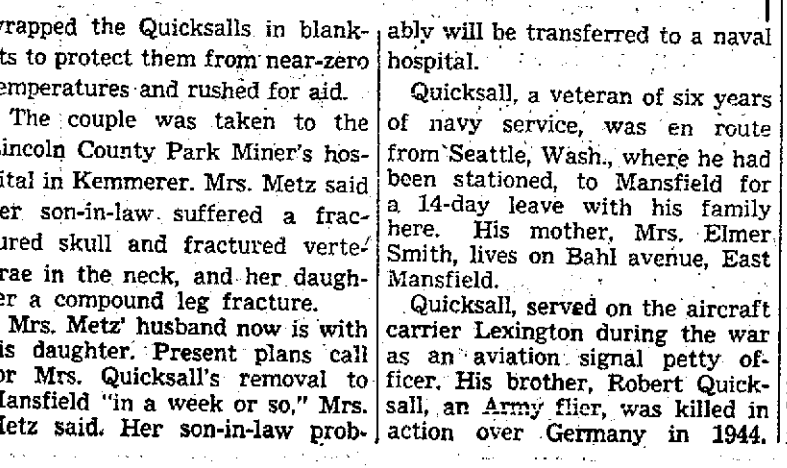

The couple was taken to the Lincoln County Park Miner's hospital in Kemmerer. Mrs. Metz said her son-in-law suffered a fractured skull and fractured vertebrae in the neck, and her daughter a compound leg fracture.

Mrs. Metz' husband now is with his daughter. Present plans call for Mrs. Quicksall's removal to Mansfield "in a week or so," Mrs. Metz said. Her son-in-law probably will be transferred to a naval hospital.

Quicksall, a veteran of six years of navy service, was en route from Seattle, Wash., where he had been stationed, to Mansfield for a 14-day leave with his family here.

His mother, Mrs. Elmer Smith, lives on Bahl avenue, East Mansfield.

Quicksall, served on the aircraft carrier Lexington during the war as an aviation signal petty officer. His brother, Robert Quicksall, an Army flier, was killed in action over Germany in 1944.

Police Make Their Own Bullets

Turn Out Practice Ammunition In Spare Time

By JOHN MINE

Mansfield policemen are keeping their shooting eyes sharp with bullets they make themselves. Working in their spare time, officers have turned out some 30,000 rounds of practice ammunition in a compact, little "factory" they've set up at headquarters.

High pistol shooting scores which they've racked up show that the ammunition hasn't been wasted. Seven officers in the last shooting class earned sharpshooter ratings with scores ranging between 85 and 95.

Main reason for setting up the department-operated "bullet factory" was the shortage of practice ammunition. As with everything else these days, ammunition is scarce because of the war, and bullets particularly so because the armed forces were snapping up all available supplies.

Can't Buy Supplies. Because the department still can't buy enough bullets to go around, the "factory" is worked over-time these days.

Purchased in 1942 for $400 by a far-sighted department which realized that a war means a drain on the ammunition supply, the factory has only recently come into its own.

The department bought up 40,000 rounds of ammunition shortly before war broke out. When this was used up they had to start the factory wheels turning—and they're being turned ever since.

A three-machine, assembly line procedure is used in turning out the ammunition.

Mix Lead, Tin. First, lead has to be melted down and the proper amount of tin added. This compound is then poured into a form which turns out six "hot" bullets at a time.

After the cooling process, the ammunition is placed in a press-like machine which greases and sizes it. From there goes to the final processing.

Here, several empty shells can be "treated" at the same time. With one pull of a lever, the old "primer" is knocked out of one shell; a new one is put in a second shell and the powder and bullet put into the third and fourth shells, respectively.

With proper timing a crew of four men can turn out some 400 bullets an hour once the lead has been mixed with the tin and the bullets molded.

All officers must qualify on the city's FBI shooting course. Here, officers must fire 50 rounds in a little more than five minutes from varying distances. They must shoot from the hip during one part of the course and from behind barricades with their left and right hands during other parts.

Patrolmen William Colby, who directs range work when Police Chief Meade K. Bates is busy, said that the fact that the department can make its own ammunition has helped greatly to keep local officers' shooting abilities in "trim."

Have Sharp Eyes. Patrolmen in the police school's last shooting class who have shot 85 to 95 out of a possible score of 100 to win sharpshooter ratings include, Earl Korn, Arthur J. Con-

FORCE MAKES OWN BULLETS: It's bullet-making day at Mansfield police headquarters. A $400 bullet "factory," purchased by the force in 1942, is paying off today. Practice ammunition is scarce because of the war, but it doesn't worry Mansfield coppers. A three-machine assembly line has already turned out 30,000 rounds to re-supply the force after its pre-war stock was expended. Left to right are Patrolman Howard E. Dickson, Police Chief Meade K. Bates, and Patrolmen C. E. Beard and Arthur J. Conrady. Chief Bates is operating the lever of a bullet loading machine while Conrady feeds empty, re-chambered shells into it. Beard mans the bullet sizing-greasing machine.

radly, C. E. Beard, Howard E. Dickson and Robert R. Garver, all older members of the force, and Robert L. Pittinger and Arlo Garver, recently appointed patrolmen. Four men still must complete the course.

The force's pistol toters are still trying to top Identification Officer Paul Martin's record score. He shot 99.6 out of a possible 100 in 1941 and it still hasn't been beaten.

COUNCIL TO STUDY FUND-RAISING PLANS

Fund-raising plans prepared by five Mansfield social agencies will be studied at a meeting of the executive committee of the Citizens Council on Social Survey in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 7:30 p. m. Friday.

Chairman Don Kirkpatrick, who called the meeting, said the plans will be submitted by H. B. Soulen and A. C. Rhoades who have met with representatives of Friendly House, the YMCA, YWCA, Girl Scouts and Salvation Army to discuss future expansion plans.

The move is part of a long-range program expected to bring about an $800,000 improvement in the five agencies.

ONE TROOPSHIP DUE

(By Associated Press) The General Ballou with 1,774 troops from Bremerhaven and the Warwick Victory with five troops and 46 dogs from Bremerhaven are scheduled to arrive today at New York. Both were due yesterday.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

In the Old Pasture is a sand pit from which sand has been taken for use in making roads. Bushes grow right to the edge of it and there is a fence around the top to keep the cows from falling into it. Peter Rabbit had crept under the fence and was sitting close to the edge where he could look down into the pit. Almost every time he passed that way he stopped to look down in that pit.

He was half dozing when he was startled into wakefulness by a harsh rattle that seemed to come from right under his feet. It startled him so that he jumped back. That was fortunate for him, for had he jumped ahead it would have taken him right off the edge into that pit. The harsh rattle was repeated. This time it didn't startle him for he was prepared for it.

"Rattles the Kingfisher," muttered Peter. He crept forward and cautiously poked his head over the edge of the pit. Just a few inches below him was another head, the tousled head of Rattles the Kingfisher.

That head was all that Peter could see. It looked as if it was somehow fastened to the wall of that pit. Peter knew it wasn't. Of course he knew that there was a hole in the wall right there and that Rattles was sitting in it with just his head outside.

Rattles came out and flew to a small stump at the edge of the pit, rattling as he did so. Peter hopped over near him.

"Hello, Longears. What are you doing over here?" asked Rattles.

"I might ask the same of you," retorted Peter.

"I was taking a look at my old home," replied Rattles.

"Do you mean that hole over there?" asked Peter.

Rattles nodded his big head with its crown of unruly feathers. "That's it and it is one of the best we have ever had and we have had some good ones," said he.

"How did you happen to find it?" Peter asked innocently.

"Find it?" cried Rattles indignantly. "I'll have you to understand, Peter Rabbit, that we Kingfishers don't use old houses dug by others as some folks do." He looked hard at Peter when he said this, for Peter often uses holes dug by others. "We dig our own homes, and we dig good ones, if I do say so," Rattles added.

"Did you dig that one all by yourself?" Peter wanted to know.

"Certainly not. Mrs. Rattles and I worked together in making a new home," replied Rattles with dignity. "We believe it takes two to make a real home."

Peter nodded as if he believed so, though the truth is Peter does nothing at all in the way of making a home and everybody knows it. "I don't see how you do it," said he.

"Do what?" asked Rattles.

"Dig," said Peter.

"I do it with my bill, of course," replied Rattles. "That is where my big bill comes in handy."

Peter looked at that big bill and could believe that. For the size of his body the head and bill of Rattles the Kingfisher are very large.

"I can see how that may be for loosening the sand, but when that is done how do you get it out of the hole?" asked Peter.

"Kick it out," replied Rattles. Peter grinned. "What with?" he asked.

"My feet, of course. What else would I kick with?" snapped Rattles crossly.

"That is what I was wondering," Peter grinned more than ever.

"What are you grinning at?" demanded Rattles harshly.

"Really, now, do you expect me to believe that you could kick out all that sand with those little feet of yours?" asked Peter.

"I don't care what you believe or what you don't believe," retorted Rattles. He was indignant. Yes, sir, he was indignant. Most folks are when they are laughed at.

The next story: "A Digger's Handy Toes."

There are about 95,000 Maori living in New Zealand.

STOCK BUYERS REMAIN TIMID

NEW YORK—(AP)—The stock market continued to react in the wake of the Republican victory although selling lacked urgency and, here and there, recovery tendencies appeared.

Brokers attributed timid bidding to the belief the list had been oversold on profit taking. Declines of fractions to a point or so predominated near mid-day.

Stumblers included Chrysler, General Motors, Baltimore & Ohio, Great Northern, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, American Smelting, Johns-Manville, U. S. Gypsum, Texas Co., and Schenley.

Resistant were American Telephone, North American, Public Service of N. J., U. S. Rubber, Southern Railway and Northern Pacific.

Cotton futures dropped $6 to $10 a bale in early trades but subsequently steadied. Bonds were mixed.

Williams Elected To Director's Post

Clarence E. Williams, 748 Anderson road, was elected to the board of directors of the National Household Goods Carriers bureau at its convention in Chicago earlier this week, it was learned today.

Williams is also president of the North American Van Lines, Cleveland, and is manager of the Frank Williams Transfer and Storage company here.

for a comparable non-presidential election contest. About 3,500,000
Ohioans were eligible to ballot.

The full scope of the Republican victory in Ohio became apparent in the final unofficial figures which left the Democrats only six hand-holds on the state's affairs. One of these—the office of state auditor—is a four-year term and was not at stake.

The others were a state supreme court judgeship, with incumbent Charles B. Zimmerman withstanding the challenge of Clinton Dewitt Boyd, Middletown Republican, 988,848 to 677,399, and four congressional seats retained by Michael Kirwan of Youngstown in the 19th district; Walter B.
Huber of Akron in the 14th, Michael Feighan of Cleveland in the 20th and Robert Crosser of Cleveland in the 21st.

Michael V. Disalle, beaten by Republican incumbent Homer A.
Ramey in the ninth, by 502 votes,
was considering asking a recount.
Two Democrats were unseated—
Edward J. Gardner of Hamilton
by Raymond H. Burke in the third district and William Thom of Canton by Henderson Carson in the 16th.

The final count showed Herbert's total to be 1,164,900 to Lausche's 1,126,710, in the governorship race.

In other state offices Paul M.
Herbert, who stepped aside in the Republican primary to prevent a battle of Herberts for the nomination for governor, defeated
George D. Nye of Waverly, 1,203, 778 to 969,977, for lieutenant governor. The Herberts are not related.

Edward J. Hummel of Cincinnati kept his post as secretary of state by beating Charles F.
Sweeney, 1,253,367 to 905,566.
Sweeney, a former member of the state liquor board, was a target for criticism by Governor Lausche when he announced his candidacy without resigning immediately.

Don H. Ebright gathered 1,305,
027 votes to James T. Welsh's
846,995 to continue as state treasurer, and Hugh S. Jenkins was re-elected attorney general over Timothy S. Hogan, 1,270,054 to 866,359.

Judge Zimmerman's victory for the Jan. 1 supreme court term was balanced by Republican Charles S.
Bell, who defeated Herbert S.
Duffy for the Jan. 2 term, 927, 799 to 726,168 on almost complete returns.

As expected, the Republicans strengthened their hold on the Ohio legislature, winning a dozen

Sponsored by the "Hep-Cats" financed by the Park association, which pays the instructor's fee. Chaperones from the association will be present at every session.

Emil Eisen, secretary of the Liberty park association, said today that no more registrations for the dancing course will be received until further notice because of the unexpected large turnout of boys and girls last night.

Dent Praises Club.
One of the most enthusiastic spectators at the first session last night was Floyd Dent, Mansfield Boy Scout executive and member of the city's recreation commission which will get the city's recreation program under way next week.

"This is my dream," Dent said as he watched the dancers. "This is what youth wants and what the city should provide."

"There's no youth problem
here," he continued. "These boys and girls came because they are seeking wholesome entertainment.
If they weren't they wouldn't be here."

Officers of the "Hep-Cat" Teenage club of Liberty Park are Lawrence Warton, president; Peggy Sylvia, vice president; Jerry Moore, secretary; Dorothy Heichel, treasurer; Richard Bak-

at-arms; and Donna Thomas and Richard Lanman, members of the advisory committee.

Kilgore Race in Doubt.
Democrats are leading in tabulations for the three undecided senate contests, the three seats
having been held also by Democrats in the 79th congress. The contests are between Herbert R.
O'Connor, Democrat, and D. John
Markey, Republican, in Maryland;
Sen. Dennis Chavez, Democrat, and former Republican Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, in New Mexico; and Sen. Harley M. Kilgore, Democrat, and Thomas Sweeney, Republican, in West Virginia.

The undecided house contest is in Utah where Walter K. Granger, Democratic incumbent, is opposed by David J. Wilson, Republican.
Wilson has a very slight lead and may possibly give the Republicans another seat.

These undetermined contests would not change the election results either way. The Republicans have gained 12 senate seats for a minimum majority of three. They zoomed from 192 in the old house to 246 in the new, for a majority of 29.

Vetoes Likely to Fly.
Bills and vetoes are likely to fly during the next two years between those Republican majorities and the White House. The bitterest battles of the last two years of the Wilson administration were fought on foreign relations—on the effort of the World War I president to take the United States into the League of Nations.
A Republican senate beat the league and the treaty of Versailles.

This time the United States has a considerable measure of bipartisan foreign policy. Responsible and powerful Republicans are pledged to support it but there also is a strong GOP element in opposition.
The change in congressional politics will not change the American representatives who have been seeking with the representatives of foreign nations to make the peace.
But foreigners may interpret the election as a vote of no confidence in the president, himself. In that event, his position in dealing with foreigners will be considerably weakened.

Nation Must Turn to Hard Work to Solve Problems, Speaker Says

KANSAS MAN TALKS TO CITY RETAIL GROUP

Heresy's Been Preached Too Long in United States, Lamp Firm Head Says.

By NORMAN DRESSER
The problems which are facing America today can be solved only by hard work, Ralph W. Carney, vice president and sales manager of the Coleman Lamp and Stove company, Wichita, Kans., told members and guests of the Detail Merchants' association last night.

Carney, who spoke to an enthusiastic audience of approximately 250 persons at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, declared "heresy has been preached" for the last 14 years.

"You cannot substitute nostrums for the only key to personal happiness and success—work," he said. "I preach a simple, old fashioned doctrine."

Carney, a slight, grey-haired, energetic man who was introduced by W. L. Faulkner, vice president of the RMA, as "a man who started with his firm at the age of 17 and hasn't stopped working yet," held the audience for an hour and a half and received a standing ovation at the conclusion of his speech.

He declared "the man who sells is the bulwark of prosperity," but charged that salesmanship fast is becoming a "lost art."

"Out of Condition."
"There is no greater asset in which there's been greater deterioration than the sales force of the nation," he said. "We are out of 'sales condition.'"

Carney traced the crumbling of this asset to the transformation from a buyer's market to a seller's market.

He said that from the beginning of the defense program in 1939 up to the present and "probably until 1949," selling became a forgotten art, but warned that "overnight this country can go from an empty stomach to a full stomach of goods."

He described many "dealers lists" or advance orders for durable goods such as automobiles and refrigerators as "spongy." Many people—including himself, he quipped—have ordered "three or four cars," but as soon as they can "get their hands on one," the remaining orders will be cancelled.

"When competitive selling returns, better salesmen will be needed," Carney said. "You can't fight the sales battles ahead with yesterday's weapons. New goods and new materials require new

AMVET POST 26 ON BLOOD TYPES

All members of the Robert P. Spreng Amvet post 26 were asked today to bring their "dog tags" or be able to report on their blood type at the regular meeting scheduled for 8 p. m. today at the Memorial building.

Information on blood types will be turned over to General hospital where it will be placed on file for emergency purposes.

A full program for tonight's meeting includes a report by the housing committee, a report by the entertainment committee on plans for a post dance to be held this month and a report by the post's new home site committee.

Final instructions will also be given to John L. Catlett and Robert Bonham who will attend the National Amvet convention in St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 21-24 as delegates from the Robert P. Spreng post.

C. of C. Sends 15 To State Meeting

Approximately 15 members of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce were in Columbus today to attend the state convention of the organization at the Neil House.

Executive Secretary John G. Routzon and President Reese Mills were among the Mansfield delegation.

The convention closes Friday with a dinner at which Averill Harriman, newly-appointed U. S. Secretary of Commerce and former ambassador to Great Britain, will speak.

Legion Post Makes Plans For Armistice Services

A discussion of the plans for Armistice Memorial Sunday and Armistice day highlighted last night's meeting of McVey post, No. 16, American Legion.

Legion members, members of other veterans' organizations, and veterans desiring to participate, will form at the Legion on Sunday at 7 p. m. and march in a body to the First Lutheran church where Past Legion Chaplain Rev. Grover Swoyer, of Pittsburgh, will deliver a special Armistice message.

On Armistice day, Monday, there will be memorial services conducted in Central park at 11 a. m. All veterans' organizations, veterans, and the community are invited to participate in this observance. Legion officials said.

The Legion will hold open house on Armistice day with dinner served by the Legion auxiliary from 5 to 7 p. m. and dancing from 8 p. m. until midnight.

The committee in charge of arrangements is H. W. Gibbs, Hollis Moorhead, Glenn Bierly, Bill Hegnauer, John Klinger, Benny Emmer and William R. Allen.

At the next Legion meeting, on Nov. 20, guests will be boys who attended Boy's State and their sponsors. John Stout is in charge.

Techniques and new methods of selling.
At the same time, he added, selling is "human relations and it contains a simple truth—the desire to be of service."

"Salesmen and women constitute the greatest living foe of national socialism, which goes under the name of 'planned economy,'" he asserted.

Prior to Carney's talk, a short business session was held. Carl O. Russell, Sam Campbell and Faulkner were elected trustees of RMA for the coming year, and Faulkner outlined the activities of the organization during the war years.

There has never been a better time for "watchful waiting" than right now.

Overoptimism is reflected in one storekeeper's idea that, the election over, there will be a plentiful supply of soap powders, and the like, within the next few days.

The "buying power" of the dollar today is fixed at 69 cents, compared with 1941—but it sometimes seems much weaker . . . especially when buying meat.

Don't Expect Truman To Resign

SILLIEST of the post-election suggestions comes from Democratic Senator J. William Fulbright, of Arkansas, who voices an idea that President Truman should resign, after appointing a Republican secretary of state who would then succeed him.

Things just aren't done that way, under the two-party system of government operative in this country, and off-year repudiation of an incumbent party leaves a penalty of two years imposed before a mistake can be fully corrected.

It may be taken for granted that President Truman, who became the accidental occupant of that high office, would sincerely prefer to retire to the quiet of his Independence, Mo., home—but he simply can't do that, as he is a staunch "party man," obligated to the forces that placed him in the senate and later compelled his acceptance of the vice presidential nomination which opened the way to the presidency. Just how he might be able to escape the Democratic presidential nomination in 1948—or how the party can avoid nominating him—is not clear to analysts of the present awkward situation, but a suggestion that he resign and turn the administrative reins over to the Republicans isn't in the cards.

Race Between Income and Living Costs

A PECULIAR situation, in the matter of demands—for requests—for pay raises, is that there is no established basis for calculation of what constitutes "reasonable" wages or salaries during the present upswing of living costs.

What may have appeared a fair wage or salary a year ago—or even a few months ago—may now be entirely out of line with required expenditures at the moment, and attempts to adjust income to outgo must be regarded as temporary rather than permanent measures.

There can be no doubt, for instance, that the present high cost of commodities justifies Mansfield firemen in asking for a monthly pay increase, and this would apply equally to other city employees—as it does to teachers.

The problem, however, is how to increase city revenues to the extent of meeting considerably higher operating costs—the only solution being an increase in some form of taxation, for it is only through taxation that funds are provided for the conduct of public business.

This presupposes an increase in the income of taxpayers, commensurate with the additional requirements—thus extending the inflationary trend all along the line . . . with no stopping place in sight.

In the matter of the request by employees of the Mansfield Tire & Rubber company for a 26-cents-an-hour pay increase the situation is somewhat different, as such an increase would be reflected in the cost of tires to users, and would probably extend throughout the rubber industry rather than being confined to any one plant.

Experience has already exploded the theory that industrial wages could be substantially increased without affecting prices to consumers, and as all productive workers are also consumers they are among those vitally concerned over rising costs.

Reference is made herein to two instances of requested pay increases merely because of their local setting, not because they differ from the whole national picture of what has become a struggle to maintain American standards of living in the face of the depreciated purchasing power of the dollar.

Learn English First, of Course

PROFESSORS at two large universities have been saying that today's high school graduates are very badly trained in the use of the English language and in the fundamentals of grammar. One professor went so far as to say that many freshman college students are unable to distinguish between an adjective and an adverb.

These are harsh words, but many parents will agree with them. Letters written home by college students are often horrible examples, in both grammar and spelling. The college student needs a working knowledge of English in order to express himself clearly and forcibly in writing on many subjects, and this knowledge and ability should be taken for granted in every high school graduate. Whether or not high school graduates go to college, the ability to use English effectively will help them in any work.

Some teachers advocate a return to the requirement of Latin in high schools as a help in learning English construction, but the old-fashioned method of hammering in the fundamentals by memory drills remains the most effective as well as the simplest way to make grammar and spelling stick.

Step Toward Moslem-Hindu Accord

FOR THE first time in history Moslems and Hindus in India are burying their differences and working for a unified country. Moslems have accepted five offices on the fourteen-man coalition interim government which is attempting to set up frame work for an independent India. Heretofore the Moslem League refused to meet with the Congress party, composed of Hindus.

The Moslem capitulation does not mean the end of strife in that troubled country. Calcutta and Bombay report Hindu-Moslem clashes resulting in bloodshed and killings. The crowded province of Bengal with its 5,000,000 population is in the grip of communal strife because of rice shortage, and masses face starvation.

India's complex problems, political, economic and social, cannot be approached until Indians themselves can find a common basis in approaching these issues. In the present world, the state of any one country affects all. Consequently this first getting-together of Moslems and Hindus is an event of at least slight encouragement not only to Indians, but to all people.

A story from South Bend is to the effect that a youthful scalper sold five tickets to the Notre Dame-Army football game for $1,000—indicating the type of persons whom their money is "soon parted" from.

THE EVIDENCE SEEMS QUITE CLEAR

Danger In Aftermath of Election Unless Sound Leadership Appears

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON — How we accept and act upon this week's election is most important.

It can well determine our course and the shape of our destiny.

In the campaign there were, unfortunately, some disturbing similarities to the reaction in this country after World War I. Among them, evidences of the same crass materialism, such as the furor over meat when there is prosperity here and so much misery in other parts of the world.

Among them, also, a selfishness typified in campaign appeals to prejudice against helping people in other lands. And, too, the Communist bugaboo that was used most insidiously against sincere progressivism.

We have come to expect certain exaggerations and falsifications in our political campaigns. Fortunately, we usually are able to value them properly and afterward to dismiss them.

There have been exemptions, however, to the forgetting mood, notably after such upheavals as a terrible war which leave people distraught and make them easy prey to delusions.

That is the danger in the aftermath to this election.

The election of 1920 was followed by all sorts of excesses. There were the infamous so-called "Red raids" which were used by some as a cover to suppress labor and labor unions. It was then too, that the Ku Klux Klan spread far afield.

There is a spirit of Ku Kluxism abroad in the land today. It can happen here again unless we watch carefully.

The election of 1920 was won on two issues—anti-League of Nations and "getting back to normalcy."

There was much of "getting back to normalcy" in this year's campaign.

Luckily, the other issue was not possible this time. While the sound and fury of the campaign went on throughout the country it was comforting to see the assembly of a new and better league meeting in our own country with our representatives taking part. And, on the eve of election, foreign ministers of other nations met in New York with our secretary of state.

The basic question of international co-operation was not an issue this time. In its broad principles that has been accepted by the Republican leadership as it was not before. It was too bad, in a way, that it was lifted out of the campaign. For it should have been an issue in many districts where men who in congress a few months ago had bitterly fought measures necessary to make international co-operation work were up for re-election. The people were not made sufficiently aware of that.

However, it becomes a matter of Republican responsibility to see that international co-operation is continued and is not impeded by our failure to do everything necessary to implement it. Congress will have much to do with that.

The people expect it. They accepted in good faith the pledges of Republican leaders. If Republicans reneged it would be tragic, for the people are powerless after the election decision.

It would be tragic, too, if Republicans acted on domestic measures in a "back-to-normalcy" spirit and weakened or destroyed fundamental reforms for the public welfare.

That, however, is probably less likely to happen than that further progress might be checked. In that other "back-to-normalcy" period congress did virtually nothing to adjust our economy to changing conditions, to provide remedies for obvious faults, such as the distressed condition of agriculture and the speculative fever in stocks that eventually sucked in "the ribbon clerks." Consequently, we were not prepared to meet the depression that broke in 1929 and overwhelmed us.

If we just let off all the brakes now and go in for a spree, as we did in the 20's, and do not continually adjust our economy to provide for the welfare of all, then we may head right into another "boom and bust."

Those who have talked so fearfully about Communism in this campaign would then have something real to worry about.

When Your Heart Beats Too Fast.

THE heart is a modest organ. It carries on its supremely important work without attracting any attention to itself, so that ordinarily we go about our daily business without being in the least aware of the faithful little pump whose constant beating keeps us alive.

Once in a while, though, this beating may become rapid and noticeable enough for us to become conscious of it. This condition is known as palpitation and, from time to time, nearly everybody experiences it.

No Cause For Alarm

So, it is well to say at the outset that palpitation is very rarely due to serious disease. Furthermore, most of the conditions which cause it are easily relieved by treatment.

Thus it is easy to see that there is no real cause for the feeling of alarm and anxiety which palpitation so frequently arouses in the minds of those who observe it in themselves.

Palpitation may occur in healthy persons who are under some severe physical or emotional strain. Hence, when it arises in such cases, it is no cause for concern.

One of the most frequent causes of palpitation is a disturbance of the rate of rhythm of the heart. The most common of these disorders is what is known as extrasystole. In this condition, the patient complains of a sudden jump or skip of the heart. Following the extra beat, there is usually an abnormally long pause.

Use of Tobacco

Extrasystole may be produced by the excessive use of tobacco, alcohol or caffeine-containing beverages.

Other causes of palpitation of the heart are the group of conditions known as tachycardia, which means rapid heart beat.

Most of these conditions arise because of actual damage to the heart.

In all cases of palpitation, a careful study to find the cause is needed before deciding on the treatment.

Six Hundred Jobs On Capitol Hill Soon To Be Shifted To Republicans

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It has been exactly sixteen years since anyone save a Democratic elevator operator, doorkeeper or page-boy drew a salary for tending gun and pretending to administer to the needs of congressmen in the halls of the Capitol. For sixteen long years, Republicans have been out in the very cold, patronageless world.

Now, however, comes the big job transfer. Beginning with the new Republican congress in January, 600 Democratic guards, ushers, clerks, stenographers, stationery room workers, et al, will get their walking papers, and 600 Republicans will take their places.

Most important of all, however, will be the new chairman of committees, since the committee of congress shape legislation far more than most people realize. Republican chairmen for the next two years will definitely affect the course of the nation.

Here is the roll call of the most important committees and the Republicans who will run them:

Foreign Affairs—Under Congressman Charles Eaton of New Jersey, the house foreign affairs committee will continue a non-partisan Truman-Roosevelt policy. Born in Canada trained as a Baptist preacher, addicted to red neckties, Congressman Eaton has been a staunch supporter of U. S.-World co-operation. When isolationist ex-Congressman Ham Fish tried to dictate GOP policy on the foreign affairs committee, Eaton was continually at his throat. As a result, FDR invited the New Jersey representative to the White House rather than Fish. Eaton has occupied pulpits in Toronto, Cleveland, New York, was once editor of Leslie's Weekly, served as Canadian correspondent for the New York Tribune and the Boston Transcript.

Ways and Means—Harold Knutson of Minnesota, new chairman of this vital committee, is bad news both to his party and the country. He voted against practically every defense measure before Pearl Harbor, chimed "Hitler is displaying a forbearance that might well be emulated by statesmen of other countries."

"Personally," proclaimed the brazen Mr. Knutson, "I cannot see much difference between Germany's actions in Norway and the New Deal program in this country."

Knutson is noisy, irrepressible, publicity-loving, has a mania for cutting taxes, especially in the higher brackets. . . . He once made a bitter attack on the late Cardinal Mundelein for favoring the Reorganization Bill. . . . When Time magazine called him "Fuzzy," Congressman Luce, wife of Time's publisher, smoothed it over by reciting Kipling's poem, "Fuzzy Wuzzy." Her irate colleague purred: . . . Knutson will be God's gift to high-tracket taxpayers, no gift to the little fellows.

Appropriations—This is the all-important committee which decides how much the government can spend. Its new chairman will be John Taber of Auburn, N. Y., a bank director and president of a water company. He's the built-in-the-china-closet type who once engaged in a fist fight with Congressman Cannon of Missouri and who yells so loud that he once restored the hearing of the late Congressman Schuetz of Chicago. Schuetz always used an ear trumpet on the floor, but during one of Taber's bellowing tirades a nerve in his ear was restored and he discarded the trumpet.

Taber glories in his reputation as a penny pincher. He delighted in chopping New Deal expenditures, but once brought great grief to his isolationist colleagues by making a speech strongly defending seven billions for lend-lease.

Colleagues were once aghast when Taber berated the Wild Life division of the interior department for paying $11,500 to Mrs. E. Eugene Lay, for land near the Finger Lakes for which she wanted $16,500. Taber demanded that the interior department be penalized for this penny pinching by killing its entire $900,000 for wild life. It turned out that Mrs. Lay was a constituent of Congressman Taber's.

Un-American Affairs—New chairman will be J. Parnell Thomas of New Jersey, bald, a snappy dresser and a wordy wrangler. His last name once was Feeney, but he changed it to more high-sounding "J. Parnell Thomas." Thomas is a Wall Street broker on leave from Paine, Webber and Company. If he had his way, the un-American committee would spend all its time harrrying labor leaders. He will out-Rankin Rankin and ex-Congressman Ham Fish will be very happy.

Rules Committee—New chairman of this all-important committee, which decides what legislation can or cannot go to the floor of the house, will be Leo Allen of Illinois. Allen is pure Illinois cornbread, is Republican Leader Joe Martin's closest friend, talks little, is a middle-of-the-road conservative, does exactly what Joe Martin tells him. In the first World War he had a good record as a field artillery sergeant.

Agriculture Committee—New chairman of this important body will be Cliff Hope of Garden City, Kans., probably the ablest member of congress in either party when it comes to agriculture. Hope wrote most of Wendell Wilkie's farm speeches and was scheduled to be Wilkie's secretary of agriculture, had Wilkie been elected.

Hope talks little, moves slowly, works hard. He is a coauthor of the bill for farm research, believes that the USA must get ready to take care of farm surpluses again, should begin now to study quick freezing, new packaging of farm products.

Veterans Committee—This important committee will now shift from the chairmanship of Mississippi's rootin'-tootin' John Rankin to that of a hard-working, effective lady—Edith Nourse Rogers of Lowell, Mass. Mrs. Rogers is one of the oldest members of congress from the point of service, having succeeded her husband in 1925. She has served the government 25 years, is 64 years old, and not afraid to state her age.

Her husband was author of the Rogers Act which created the American career diplomatic service. Ever since, Mrs. Rogers has kept up her interest in foreign affairs, as well as doing a terrific job for her district. Few congressmen work harder and get more accomplished. Probably she got more favors from the Democratic administration than the average Democrat. As a long-time member of the Veterans committee, Mrs. Rogers has been battling bitterly with Chairman Rankin, will be a vast improvement over the gentleman from Mississippi.

Banking and Currency—This committee formulates all legislation dealing with Federal Reserve System, national banks and fiscal policy. New chairman will be Jesse Wolcott of Michigan, sometimes called the "General Motors representative in congress." Wolcott is roly-poly, smart, has a sense of humor, sets policy for members of his party on fiscal affairs. First opposed to the British loan, he later championed it. Wolcott will move to knock out Federal Reserve Board Chairman Eccles' policy of discouraging installment buying. Big bankers will wear broad smiles when Wolcott takes over this committee.

Interstate Commerce—Chairman of this committee which deals with railroads, telephones, and telegraphs is veteran Representative Charles A. Wolverton of Merchantville, N. J. Though Wolverton has served in congress longer than most colleagues, he doesn't hesitate to vote with the Democrats when it comes to labor and consumers. He voted against every crippling O-P amendment, has the reputation of putting the country ahead of party.

National Defense—Under the new reorganization of congress, the former naval and military affairs committees will be merged into one, probably under the chairmanship of Rep. Walter "Dam" Andrews of Buffalo, N. Y. Andrews is a conservative, conscientious congressman with a good record in World War I, who believes that the sun rises and sets with the brass hats. The army will get what it wants from him. He will be a big improvement, however, over the retiring gentleman from Kentucky, Andrew Jackson May.

Prosperity or Disaster—Which Shall It Be?

NEW YORK—The margin between a prosperous nation and a nation torn by destructive internal quarrels is so small. The potential is so great in terms of human satisfaction.

We have the example before us today. Nearly every American who wants to work is at work. According to the latest report from Washington, there are only about 2,000,000 unemployed.

Anyone who has traveled around the country needs no statistics to prove the pent-up demand for every kind of goods. That demand has been scratched by the production we have had since V-J day. And beyond our own shores there are vast markets impatiently waiting for American machines.

That is the picture just after the first election since the peace. It is a picture painted with the brightest colors. Yet beneath those bright colors are the signs of deterioration and decay. No one can deny them.

The price level is close to the peak reached in 1920. That inflationary peak of 26 years ago was the signal for a swift deflation that wiped out swollen land values and sent commodity prices down to levels that meant hardship or failure for millions of farmers.

Nor is the end of the price rise in sight. In many fields prices are still spiraling upward. At the same time the pressure to take off all remaining controls continues unabated.

Perhaps this is the only recourse since decontrol has gone so far. But the folly of it—the folly of this needless spiral—strikes home. Whatever it is that the economic prophets say is just ahead—shake-down, recession, depression—might so easily have been avoided if we had been willing to submit for a brief time longer to the common discipline of government controls.

It might still be avoided with an ounce of self-restraint. You cannot feel very hopeful, however, that this ounce of self-restraint will be forthcoming.

To serve his own personal ambition, John L. Lewis is willing to put the economy of the nation in jeopardy. He is playing once again his favorite role of Samson. He chooses to defy the terms of a firm contract made with the government of the United States. He made this defy at a time when it was calculated to cause the utmost political embarrassment to the administration.

If he gets away with it, as he seems to have done, then under our system of competitive unionism, all the other union bosses must go out to win equal or greater gains. Some have already announced new wage demands. Indeed, in some instances the price rise has made a wage increase imperative. So the vicious race between wages and prices goes on. A race in which only a few speculators can profit.

Signs that the full flower of peacetime prosperity is beginning to fade a little are just becoming visible. On the luxury side there is a slight slackening.

If we do have a recession or a depression, it will be so utterly senseless, so needless.

The men who deal in economic facts and figures talk knowingly about the need to shake down prices. But the sad truth is that prices need not have got out of hand to anything like the degree that they have.

The margin is so small. The choice is so clear. We can throw out the window the greatest chance any nation ever had for a long-sustained period of prosperity and well-being. And with it will go the chance for a stable world in which the best values of the past are preserved.

Farmer's Diary: "Corn Picker at Work."

I WATCHED a modern corn picker harvest our neighbor's corn. The stalks were tall. All I could see, as the machine slithered through the first long row was the crooked end of the red-painted elevator, moving steadily along. Behind was hitched a low broad wagon. At intervals of seconds, I heard the drop of ears onto the solid wooden bottom.

Back and forth, as rapidly as a spirited team would walk the outfit moved—two rows at each round. A few hours, and the whole space was cleared of giant stalks. Short joints of fodder, blades, and clean light husks lay littered on the ground. The large crib was nearly full. Going by at evening, I turned from my path to enjoy the odor. At no other time is it quite so richly fragrant as when newly husked.

Perhaps a third of all our corn is harvested, this year, by the picker. It is as great a labor saver on the farm as the old grain binder was, a half century ago.

But still long rows of shocks persist in many fields. And between the rows, the brown soil is soon covered with a pleasing soft green zone of wheat. One crop scarcely taken from the surface until another is growing. I thrust an exploring hand into the center of a shock. I touched long heavy ears of grain, and felt a warmth that seemingly had been stored there from some days ago.

Down at the end, the neighbor had a score of piles of yellow corn upon the ground, that he had husked by hand. My father and grandfather did it so—then picked it up in bushel measures and emptied them into a high wagon bed. This was hauled to the barn and unloaded with a scoop into an opening high in the side of the corner. The modern, more efficient way, is to drive the load of corn up an incline, and let it slide down into an open elevator that automatically lifts the corn high into any crib or storage.

The corn stubble, left by the picker on the field, is partially crushed, and allowed to mulch the surface. One farmer in our vicinity has a brand new corn crib improvised from posts and wire fence, the whole length of his barnyard. The crib is full of yellow corn, and beside it the rolling acres of stubble are fast growing green with next year's crop . . . a pretty sight.

Nation Must Turn to Hard Work to Solve Problems, Speaker Says

KANSAS MAN TALKS TO CITY RETAIL GROUP

Heresy's Been Preached Too Long in United States, Lamp Firm Head Says.

By NORMAN DRESSER

The problems which are facing America today can be solved only by hard work, Ralph W. Carney, vice president and sales manager of the Coleman Lamp and Stove company, Wichita, Kans., told members and guests of the Detail Merchants' association last night.

Carney, who spoke to an enthusiastic audience of approximately 250 persons at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, declared "heresy has been preached" for the last 14 years.

"You cannot substitute nostrums for the only key to personal happiness and success—work," he said. "I preach simple, old fashioned doctrine."

Carney, a slight, grey-haired, energetic man who was introduced by W. L. Faulkner, vice president of the RMA, as "a man who started with his firm at the age of 17 and hasn't stopped working yet," held the audience for an hour and a half and received a standing ovation at the conclusion of his speech.

He declared "the man who sells is the bulwark of prosperity," but charged that salesmanship fast is becoming a "lost art."

"Out of Condition." "There is no greater asset in which there's been greater deterioration than the sales force of the nation," he said. "We are out of 'sales condition.'"

Carney traced the crumbling of this asset to the transformation from a buyer's market to a seller's market.

He said that from the beginning of the defense program in 1939 up to the present and "probably until 1949," selling became a forgotten art, but warned that "overnight this country can go from an empty stomach to a full stomach of goods."

He described many "dealers lists" or advance orders for durable goods such as automobiles and refrigerators as "spongy." Many people—including himself, he quipped—have ordered "three or four cars," but as soon as they can "get their hands on one," the remaining orders will be cancelled.

"When competitive selling returns, better salesmen will be needed," Carney said. "You can't fight the sales battles ahead with yesterday's weapons. New goods and new materials require new techniques and new methods of selling." At the same time, he added, selling is "human relations and it contains a simple truth—the desire to be of service."

"Salesmen and women constitute the greatest living foe of national socialism, which goes under the name of 'planned economy,'" he asserted.

Prior to Carney's talk, a short business session was held. Carl O. Russell, Sam Campbell and Faulkner were elected trustees of RMA for the coming year, and Faulkner outlined the activities of the organization during the war years.

"Pop," said a boy of ten, "how do wars get started?"
"Well, son," began pop, "Let us say that America quarreled with England—"
"America is not quarreling with England," interrupted Mother.

"Who said she was?" said Pop, visibly irritated. "I merely was giving the boy a hypothetical instance."
"Ridiculous," snorted Mother. "You'll put all sorts of wrong ideas in his head." "Ridiculous" nothing," countered Pop. "If he listens to you, he'll never have any ideas at all in his head."

Just as the lamp-throwing stage approached, the son spoke up again: "Thanks, Mom. Thanks, Pop. I'll never have to ask how wars get started again."

There is a certain producer at MGM whose assaults on the English language have made history. In one of his humbler moments he announced, "I may not always be right, but I'm never wrong." Another time he told his yes-men, "I had a terrific idea last night, boys—but I didn't like it." (It was of this studio that Philip Barry remarked, "The MGM lot is not a happy one.")

JUST AS a Santa Fe train was pulling out of the station, a young man threw his bag on to the observation platform, and swung himself up over the handrail. He stood panting but triumphant as the train gathered speed.

An elderly party on the platform observed him with some scorn. "You young fellows don't keep yourselves in condition," he snorted. "Look at how done in you are! Why, when I was your age I could carry a cup of coffee in one hand, run half a mile, catch the 8:15 by the skin of my teeth, and still be as fresh as a daisy."

"You don't understand, Pop," puffed the young man. "I missed this train at the last station."
A resident of Dallas was having a drink at a New York bar when a convivial next to him suggested, "Have one on me." "That's right sportin' of you, pardner," said the Texan. "What state ya hail from?"

The stranger waved his arm expansively and declared, "From the best darn state in the world!" "Funny," frowned the man from Dallas. "You don't sound like so Texan to me."

MARTIN PLEDGES FEWER CONTROLS

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Mass. (U)—Getting the nation back on a peacetime basis will be the first job tackled by Republicans in congress, House Leader Joseph W. Martin, jr., of Massachusetts said today.

Outlining plans for the first GOP-controlled house of representatives in 16 years, Martin promised that "the American people will be freed from government controls" as soon as possible after the 80th congress meets in January.

The 62-year-old publisher-legislator who is virtually assured of election as speaker of the house, said in an interview at his home here that he would assemble the Republican steering committee in Washington on Nov. 14 to map party strategy. Then on Dec. 2, he will call a meeting of all Republican representatives-elect.

"We will hold conferences," he said, "to give both old and new members a chance to familiarize themselves with the findings of our various study committees, and to prepare for prompt and decisive action."

This action, said Martin, will include:

Immediate curtailment of "unnecessary and wasteful" activities. Prompt repeal of the president's war emergency powers. Thorough study of American foreign policy to determine the extent of "secret executive agreements."

Mayor to Ride Leading Plane For AAF Show

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn will ride in the leading plane of a formation of army training planes which will circle Mansfield Saturday to mark the opening of an army air forces reserve officers training program at Municipal airport.

G. K. Kunkle, president of the Mansfield Air Forces association, composed of World War II army fliers, said today the training program will be held here Saturday and Sunday.

Col. C. A. Bassett and Capt. J. A. Kyle, 11th air force fliers, will arrive here from Cleveland early Saturday to supervise the training program for the week-end, Kunkle said.

Reserve officers scheduled for training must wear either winter or summer army uniforms during the training period, and are required to bring personnel orders and a form five.

A meeting at which the program will be explained will be

MEET THURSDAY

Prospect Park association members will meet in the basement of Prospect school Thursday at 7:30 p. m. to discuss plans for the organization's annual card tournament, Robert F. Ellis, president, announced today. Ellis said it is planned tentatively to begin the tournament the evening of Nov. 11.

Barclay on Bridge

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

THERE IS no limit to the funny things which the cards can do. Contracts which seem absolutely sure-fire to make are sometimes impossible. Others which seem impossible of accomplishment are unbeatable. Often the post-mortem of a deal will disclose grotesque features which nobody would ever have suspected during the bidding or the play.

Offhand, you would say when you saw the dummy that North could not possibly be beaten in that contract. Three tricks must be lost in hearts, but no more. Yet, when East rattled off the three heart tricks, West discarded all three of his diamonds, then ruffed East's switch to the diamond 2 to beat the contract.

Bemoaning his hard luck, North suddenly exclaimed: "Say, it probably sounds crazy, but I bet South could have made a grand slam at No Trumps on this nutty deal."

Just for fun, the players in the friendly rubber game reassembled the hands and looked them over. Sure enough, North was right. West, unable to lead a heart, would have opened his club J. Twelve tricks then would have been immediately in sight, followed by a squeeze on East for the 13th. The order of tricks would have been: club A, spade A, club K, then the rest of the spades. As the last was played, the dummy would hold also three hearts and the diamond 8, and South four diamonds and the club 9, which he would discard. East would have held four diamonds and the heart A. If he discarded the heart, North's 10 would have become good; if he threw off a diamond, South's 5 would have become good.

If you are saving comical hands, this is "One for the book."

British Girls Now Hopeful About Nylons

LONDON (UP)—News that the government will enter the nylon stocking business has brought joy to millions of English girls—most of them bare-legged.

The Ministry of Supply announced that it has signed an agreement to manufacture machinery for commercial producers of full fashioned stockings. Eight hundred workers will start soon on a $4,000,000 order for new machinery to be turned out at an ordnance plant at Nottingham.

Since the early part of the war, most English girls have preferred bare legs to the rough stockings of cotton, available only in limited supply. Foreign visitors gasped at the sight of thousands of ruddy, unsheathed legs in London's most frigid weather.

During the past year nylons have appeared only in the black market, with the exception of a trickle into the shops from the industry's infant attempts here.

Businessmen in other industries were scrutinizing the Labor government's latest move, which hosiery manufacturers consider a valuable stimulus to trade. Industrialists in other lines need plant equipment urgently to replace worn machinery for the post-war export drive. The government efforts will supplement, rather than replace, present producers of industrial machinery.

Who Gets Off Easiest—Men or Women?

Maybe you saw that poll on who has the easiest life—men or women? Of course, the men voted that the women did, and the women vice versa.

It would be the same in our town—take any family. Thad Phibbs envies his Missus spending the day at home, with no hot office to attend to. And Sue envies Thad his luncheons with the boys; and his evening glass of beer with friends (while she cleans up the dishes in the kitchen).

Of course, none of it goes very deep. Thad knows way deep down that the Missus has plenty of work running a house; and Sue knows Thad's friendly glass of beer is well-deserved relaxation after a long hard day's work.

From where I sit, most husbands and wives may grumble now and then—but they know in their hearts it's a case of live and let live, give and take, that comes out pretty even in the end.

Stylish Hats Worn to Retail Dinner Last Night

By MARGARET WATER

If the hats worn to the annual dinner of the Mansfield Retail Merchants' association last night are any indication, brown is challenging the traditional black in smart women's wardrobes.

Line satin ribbon twisted across the crown of Miss Maxie Marnher's brown felt pillbox and into a peppy bow on top. . . . Mrs. N. N. Charles chose a brown high crowned pillbox banded with wide chartreuse grosgrain ribbon looped into a full bow. . . . Ms. Grace Leister selected a black ruled turban trimmed with fluffy ostrich. . . . One of the modish profile cloches of black felt with a wide brim rolled over a black squinned band was worn by Mrs. Elma McCree. . . . Mrs. Harriet Sutton's soft-visored greige felt had plumes of black ostrich on either side. . . . Mrs. Alma Brown wore her tiny black sailor trimmed with a feathery plume of ostrich tipped saucily over the forehead. . . . Modeling the new smart combination of black and shades of brown was Miss Lillian Lipner, whose black peaked cloche was topped by a fluff of light rusi ostrich feathers.

Missionary Tells Church Society of Customs In India

The Women's Missionary Society of the First Lutheran church heard Mrs. Robert Oberly speak at a meeting held Wednesday evening at the church with devotions in the charge of Mrs. Helen Eike.

Mrs. Oberly, a missionary just returned from India after ten years of service in that field, told in an informal manner of the many customs prevailing in India and of the difficulty of interesting the higher caste Indians in the Christian religion. However, she stated there is whole-hearted interest displayed by the poor out-caste people. She gave a clear picture of life in an Indian village.

Members of the Florence Welty and Alice Cashell Missionary Societies attend as did approximately 12 members of the Lutheran Missionary society of Bellville.

PERSONAL LOANS

This hurts us more than it does you

The shortage of Climalene has been hard on all concerned—you who depend on it for your household tasks, the grocers who depend on it as a steady sales item in their stores, and lastly ourselves.

You see, for several months we couldn't get raw materials and had to stop production.

Now we're making Climalene again. But with stocks cleaned out and demand so heavy, you may have to get along with a limited supply for a while. Much as it hurts, we have to say, "Please use Climalene sparingly and make it last longer."

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, Nov. 8.

It is probable that a relaxed or static state of affairs may ensue, after high tensions, over-activity or concentrated efforts of the preceding period of reaching for ambitious goals. The let-down may create an inclination to various forms of carelessness, excesses, prodigality and extravagances, with loose rein upon the purse strings and other resources. Face the fact that inflationary ideas do not alleviate depressions.

Those whose birthday it is are likely to feel a relaxed or stagnant condition, with low spirits or depression, perhaps due to overwork, disappointments, lack of encouragement or inspiration, or some phase of physical handicap. To offset this they may endeavor to find escape in the form of over-indulgence, excesses, extravagance with funds or energies, pleasure or recklessness. All these complicate or aggravate the lowered state of mind and spirits.

A child born on this day may be imbued with a desire for prodigality, excesses, extravagance and indulgence, to offset an inherent disinclination to exert itself in creative work.

Fox-Fishburn

MILLERSBURG — Announcement is made of the marriage of Mrs. Louise Fox of Ripley township and Claude Fishburn of Millersburg.

Rev. Horace Dutton, pastor of Hopewell Presbyterian church officiated for a single ring ceremony at the bride's home, Oct. 19 at 8 o'clock. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bell of Millersburg.

YMCA SETS DATES FOR MEMBER DRIVE

The YMCA membership committee last night selected Nov. 15 through Nov. 22 as the dates for a campaign to obtain 400 new members.

Under the chairmanship of Richard F. Tucker, the committee selected these co-chairmen for four divisions: large industrial plants, Franklyn Lay and Vernon Smeltzer; small industrial plants, Robert Ross and Charles Green; retail and small businesses, Robert Horn and Myron Miller; schools, Harold Mansfield.

The committees hope to enlist about 150 workers to aid. Donald Cram, Y program director, has been named chairman of the publicity committee.

The membership committee will meet again on Nov. 12 at 5 p. m. in the YMCA.

Grass Fires Cause Half October Runs

Of the 70 fire runs made by the Mansfield fire department during October, 34 were for grass or leaf fires and nine were false alarms.

Fire Chief L. J. Steele reported yesterday.

The false alarm total was nearly double that of September, he said. Of the total runs, 15 were for fires outside the city.

Fire loss during the month was an estimated $2,385 out of the some $12,000 worth of property involved. This compares with a September loss of $4,574 out of $93,000 worth of property involved.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 million of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up at night. Frequent urination, aching back, and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging headache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills. —Adv.

LEADERS GIVE VIEWS ON VOTE

(By Associated Press)

Governor Thomas E. Dewey, returned to office as New York's governor by a thumping plurality approaching 700,000, declared the people have made their choice between "two different political philosophies" and asked cooperation from all groups to meet post-war problems.

The GOP 1944 presidential nominee, whose hand was strengthened for a possible new bid for the presidency, said "our people want government that will serve the people without trying to become their master."

Senator Arthur Vandenberg, leading GOP exponent of a bi-partisan foreign policy, interpreted his reelection in Michigan as an "unmistakable endorsement" of that bi-partisan policy.

Emphasis on important new tasks for the victorious GOP also was voiced by Rep. Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, top choice for Republican speaker in the new house, who said "we appreciate and accept the responsibility the American people have by their mandate placed in our hands."

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of the late president, campaigned for the Mead-Lehman ticket which went down to defeat in New York, announced, through a secretary, that she would have no comment.

Henry A. Wallace, former vice president and secretary of commerce, who has been a vocal champion of the left wing element in the Democratic party, said in Washington that "the Democratic party will either become more progressive or it will die."

The CIO Political Action Committee in a statement by its director, Jack Kroll, scorned what it termed "the gains scored by reaction" and declared, "we have just begun to fight."

The GOP's elder statesman, former President Herbert Hoover, interpreted his party's triumph as evidence America was "again moving to the goal of free men."

Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, considered a GOP presidential possibility in 1948, said, "the results of the election show that the American people definitely are opposed to giving an arbitrary central government the power of money to regulate their daily life."

She was dripping in sables, gems, etc., as she oops'd into the Cub Room. She waved away all the waiters, etc. "Bring me Mr. Billingsley!" she commanded.

Mr. B. went over. "I want some caviar," she bellowed. "It must be imported caviar! Are you sure it is genuine imported? Be sure."

Recently a Rabbitt bobbed up and urged him to talk before a group. "We will pay you liberally," said the fellow.

"That," was the reply, "is no inducement. I can't afford to waste my time making money."

Damon Runyon was discussing the various people who waste a lot of time feuding. He recalled Harry Leon Wilson, who authored "Ruggles of Red Gap" and "Merton of the Movies."

"Wilson," he said, "would merely not speak to the person for six months. He mentally suspended him. But the victim never knew why. Then one day Wilson would say "Good morning," as though nothing had happened."

The stew's expression of gratitude was profuse. "Oh, thank you, thank you!" he said tearfully. "I thawt my leg was off!"

Up and Down The Street

IRRIGATION DOES IT—
This was a good year to irrigate potatoes, according to J. C. Gorman who now reports 38,000 bushels in storage at his Kerrywe farm on the Clearfork. Gorman says that irrigating regularly to a depth of eight inches not only gave him tremendous yields last summer but produced a more uniform potato. At one time during the growing season the 120 acres of potatoes received only one rain in 10 weeks, he said.

COMPETITION—
Ralph W. Carney, of Wichita, Kans., principal speaker at the Retail Merchants' association dinner last night at the Mansfield-land hotel, testifies to the ability of Sam Vining, well-known Mansfield salesman:

"It was no fun following Sam around as a salesman. Why, my company several years ago quit making the competing product which Sam's outfit made!"

FINDS TINY SHOE—
Somewhere in Mansfield there's a very small youngster with a shoe missing. And if the youngster's daddy wants to find the shoe it's at the post office. Acting Postmaster C. L. Ford said it was found on top a mailbox in front of the post office.

Ford guessed that some small boy or girl took the shoe off because it was new and maybe hurt a little. Besides, it's not so long after barefoot season, and some little feet may not be used to shoes yet.

14-YEAR REIGN OF DEMOCRATS DUE FOR STUDY

Congress Believed Likely Also to Investigate Influence of Late Harry Hopkins.

By JOHN L. CUTLER
NEW YORK—(UP)—The Republican victory in the congressional elections raised the possibility today of another Pearl Harbor investigation and a search into the White House influence of the late Harry L. Hopkins during the Roosevelt regime.

Both house and senate, under Republican control when the 80th congress meets in January, are expected to launch special investigations into virtually every phase of Democratic administration for the last 14 years.

High on the agenda may be reopening of the Pearl Harbor investigation, conducted by a 10-man joint committee under Democratic control through late 1945 and early 1946, and a look into the influence of Hopkins on both the domestic and international scene.

GOP Dissented.
Two Republican members of the Pearl Harbor committee — Sens. Homer Ferguson of Michigan and Owen Brewster of Maine — dissented from the majority report which exonerated the late President Roosevelt and his top military and political advisers in the Dec. 7, 1941, disaster.

Ferguson subsequently told the United Press that "the truth about Pearl Harbor never will be known until there is a Republican congress."

Any investigation of Hopkins' activities, on the basis of Republican complaints, probably would start with his administration of the lend-lease program.

It might be extended into a review of his participation with Mr. Roosevelt in international conferences and a search for "secret" foreign commitments which some Republicans contend were made in Big Three meetings at Yalta and Tehran.

Write Own Version.
Republican-sponsored investigations could be expected to write their own version of the nation's history under Democratic control. They could develop arguments for the Republican campaign to elect a GOP president in 1948.

The prime target probably would be the 12-year rule of Mr. Roosevelt. The shorter tenure of his successor, President Truman, would not go unchallenged, however.

The scope of probable Republican investigations was indicated by Rep. Clarence J. Brown (R-O). "We will open every session of the house with a prayer and close it with a probe," he said. "We believe in the old gospel hymn, 'Let the Sunlight In.' The American people have a right to know how their money has been spent and how their government has been conducted. These things have not yet been completely exposed."

Pegler

NEW YORK—Among the reasons why the voters turned against the New Deal, even ignoring idolatrous invocations of the Hyde Park hant, was a dawning realization that, from Roosevelt himself through to the honorary bleeding hearts of the night-side in New York and Hollywood, the championship of the "people" was always a political pose, never a sincere inner mission.

Never, in our country, at Newport of old or at Palm Beach in the spectacular nights of the prohibition era, were more extravagant scenes of indulgence and luxury enacted than in Harry Hopkins' wedding party or Marshal Field's debut at the Statler in Washington, whereby the little man who isn't there introduced himself to the ink-stained wretches of the fourth estate. These were not exceptional, but typical, as Elliott Roosevelt reveals in his memoirs, which bear a certain resemblance to "Ten Nights in a Barroom." Merriman Smith, the White House correspondent of the United Press, in "Thank You, Mr. President," the frankest and most informative of the memory-books to date, tells us that Roosevelt was a regal fellow and gives us a new, revolting drunkenness among the mourning members of this official household on the train returning from his funeral. These were the selfless anonymity of the palace.

HERE ARE selected quotations from Elliott's story of the travels which tore him away from the war to attend his father at his great conference among the potentates:

"Cocktail glasses clinked and the air buzzed with heavy talk"; "father remarked that there had seemed to be 365 toasts—"; "at the prime minister's birthday dinner, once more the Russian custom, everyone toasting everyone else, was observed and I am afraid that accurate count was lost. I do remember Stalin's cheerful habit of touching the glass of everyone in whose name we were drinking. And father paid tribute to the huge Red army that was rolling the Nazi war machine steadily back"; "there was no conversation without a drink. The only way we talked was through the medium of proposing a toast. If your staying power is good it develops into quite a lot of fun"; "Stalin stuck to vodka; once he filled my glass; if it was anything less than 100 proof I do not wish to be offered the real thing"; "by and large, I stuck to champagne, feeling that American honor was at stake"; "Thanksgiving dinner could not have been more pleasant; Tarawa and Makin, with terrible cost, were behind us; over Europe, our air armadas were daily growing in might, as Berlin was discovering"; "father always brought his own turkeys from home"; "so that night I went to a Cairo night club"; "when Madame Chiang left me to go on to another guest, I got myself a long, stiff drink."

HITLER WAS an ascetic, but in this enormous joviality of gods at play these other masters of men disposed the world, mankind and the future, and who knows how good their "staying power" was?

The fastidious taste of the communists in the angry deliberations on the brave and peaceful world of the future, and fragmentary news of voluptuous life in Moscow, surely brought to mind comparisons with the quiet, timid living of the last Russian czar. Stalin himself, when he went to war, threw off the masquerade of blouse and peasant's cap and the baggy pants stuffed in his boots to appear in a marshal's costume, with sequins on his collar and stripes two inches wide on his trousers.

BOUND TO JURY ON THEFT CHARGE

An alleged shoplifter from Pittsfield, Mass., who, police said, confessed stealing some $2,600 worth of sporting goods from stores in three states, pleaded innocent to a grand larceny charge in municipal court today and was held to the grand jury on $2,000 bond.

The defendant, Gruffydd G. Roberts, 40, waived examination. He pleaded innocent to charges that he stole some $73 in merchandise from the Montgomery Ward company store here.

Officers said they learned that Roberts operates a sporting goods store in Pittsfield. They said that the $2,600 in sporting goods which they found in his car was stolen from stores in at least 16 cities in Michigan, Wisconsin and Ohio.

Francis Bowman, Mansfield, D. 3, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 20 days in the county jail on a charge of indecent exposure. He pleaded guilty. He will be committed to the Columbus workhouse to work out the fine.

The 20-day jail sentence came when a suspended sentence, imposed in August on a similar charge, was lifted.

Driver Fined $10.
Fined $10 and costs were Allie C. Owens, 29 West Augustine avenue, for passing a school bus and charging passengers; James Staggs and Robert Hancock, 71 North Foster street, drunk and disorderly conduct.

Thomas S. Ray, Guin, Ala., speeding; Harold Nusbaum, Toledo, failure to yield right-of-way; and Harold Robnolte, Shelby, speeding.

Douglas G. Hollis, Ashland, was fined a total of $10 and costs on two charges: failure to display an operator's license and operating a motor vehicle with an inadequate muffler.

Fined $10 and costs each in traffic court yesterday were Harold E. Carpenter, of Lexington, and Riley J. Marietta, Loudonville, cited for speeding.

Cliff M. Zehner, 107 Harker street, was fined $5 and costs for disregarding traffic signal while Harry L. Dirr, Southern hotel, was fined $2 and costs on a charge of overtime parking.

Milton Simmons, of Dayton, forfeited a $25 bond on a speeding charge, while the case of William H. Meyer, Benedict avenue, charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol, was dismissed. He pleaded innocent.

250 WOMEN HEAR EXPERTS DEBATE RUSSIAN ISSUE

In spite of this morning's deluge, approximately 250 members of the Mansfield Federation of Women, gathered at the Ohio theater to hear debated one of the top controversial issues of the day, "Is Russia a Force for Peace," by two experts in their fields, William Mandel and Hallett Abend.

Upholding the position that the USSR is a force for peace, Mandel, author of "The Soviet Far East," asserted that of the Allied nations, "Russia has made the greatest contribution by eliminating the power of the Prussian Junkers and the German industrialists which could form the backbone of a resurgence of Fascism in Germany."

He pointed out that the recently published budget of the USSR, while the largest in the history of the Soviet regime, reduced by 50 per cent the military appropriations of the preceding year, allocating toward armaments less than allowed in the U. S. budget. Tied in with this, the recommendation from the Kremlin for world disarmament, Mandel felt, was a constructive element in peace-making.

Trade Treaties Cited.
Also supporting his position, Mandel noted Stalin's request for trade treaties with this country and that Russia has withdrawn its military forces from occupied territory and holds few military bases.

"Russia realizes," Mandel stated, "that there are economic, social and political differences between the U. S. and itself and asks for free competition between the systems on the points for which we fought together in World War II."

"A nation cannot be a force for peace unless it abandons or avoids expansion and lives up to its agreements," said Abend in upholding the negative side of the question.

He said Russia by taking over Manchuria, outer Mongolia and Polish territory to the Curzon line has expanded into regions which will prove tinderboxes of future war threats.

The author of "Reconquest" and veteran of 15 years in China as correspondent for the New York Times, stressed particularly the explosive situation in the Far East created by Russia in control of northern Korea and Port Arthur and possessing a half interest in the Manchurian Railroad.

Statistics Cited.
Backing his statement with statistics, Abend continued that contrary to general opinion, Russia is keeping larger forces outside of her boundaries than the U. S. or Britain.

Russia has denied, he asserted, her profession of non-expansion by taking back the Balkan countries, Latvia, Estonia, and Lithuania, and has returned to Czarist policies of power politics.

He interpreted Stalin and Molotov's recent statements on the atomic bomb, and the recent labeling by the president of Russia's parliament of this country as "atomic blackmailers" as a definite lack of intention for peace.

Due to lack of time, rebuttals by both men were curtailed.

The speakers were introduced by Mrs. George Searle, president of the Mansfield Federation of Women's Clubs which sponsored the debate.

Mistakes Trip Pennsylvania Youths Held In Auto Thefts

Because they made three mistakes, three Harrisburg, Pa., youths are in city jail today facing possible auto theft charges.

Although the trio tried hard to out-wit police, quick thinking by Patrolman Howard Dickson resulted in their arrest.

The youths, 20 and 21, allegedly stole two cars between Harrisburg and Mansfield and then reportedly stole one owned by A. C. Stonebrook, 214 South Diamond street.

Their first was made when they tried to "sell" a car they supposedly stole in Pennsylvania to a Mansfield service station manager. He quickly put police on their trail.

When they climbed into Stonebrook's car, they made their second mistake. It was one with a hydromatic clutch, a "gadget" with which none of the three was familiar. As they tumbled in their attempts to start the car a second witness phoned police and the trail was picked up again.

The three fled out West Fourth street and turned onto the Lexington-Shelby road. The driver lost control of the auto and it was ditched on that road.

The trio's third mistake came when they began hitch-hiking on U. S. Route 30-N, along which Patrolman Dickson was speeding on a report that they left the city in that direction.

He arrested the youths on a hunch that they were the sought-after three and they are being questioned to determine whether they'll be charged locally or by the FBI, police said.

Classes are scheduled for 10 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 to 4 p. m. each day.

Attendance at both the morning and afternoon sessions of either school is necessary in order that the persons attending will receive complete instruction, Carey said.

Now Ohio Has Two Tafts In U. S. Senate

CLEVELAND—(INS)—If President Truman decides that he needs some legislative help before the new Republican-dominated congress convenes in January, the senators Taft of Ohio will be on hand to lend their aid.

Newly elected Kingsley A. Taft left his Cleveland home last night for Washington to prepare himself "in case congress is called into extra session before the end of the year."

The unique and probably history-making situation of two senators of the same name from the same state at the same time arose in Ohio as a final result of one of the president's own appointments.

He named the Buckeye state's senior senator, Harold H. Burton, to the supreme court bench. Gov. Frank J. Lausche appointed Democrat James W. Huffman to serve in the upper house until Tuesday's election, which swept Republican Kingsley Taft into office, effective that day, to complete the unexpired term.

RUNAWAY HORSE INJURES GIRL, 9

Patsy Schafer, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Schafer, 20 Dewey avenue, received minor injuries about 5 p. m. yesterday when she was struck by a runaway horse on Central avenue near Vine street.

Police reported the horse was ridden by Joe Schambaugh, who lives at the corner of Cherry and Vine streets.

The child was treated at General hospital for lacerations, and released.

WASHINGTON—(UP)—When a Republican congress grabs one end of the rope and a Democratic White House the other, or vice-versa, the tug-of-war is so evenly matched the boys produce nothing but agonized grunts.

This is no mere sotto-saying. I know. I doubt if I'll ever be able to forget.

The year was 1932. The situation was the exact reverse of today's White House was Republican; the house of representatives Democratic. I landed in town from a stint of writing news about the gangsters in Chicago. The late Ray Clapper, my boss, asked if I knew anything about government; I had to admit that I was an expert only on submarine guns and needed beer.

He assigned me to the White House. It was an ideal place, he said, for a green reporter to break into Washington. I wondered why. "Nothing ever happens there," Ray replied.

Whenever Herbert Hoover sent a message suggesting that congress adopt some legislation, the Democrats managed either to lose it, or to vote it down. Some times the lawmakers wrote some laws on their own accord. They'd send 'em down to 1800 Pennsylvania avenue and Hoover invariably would veto them. This impasse left the adversaries glaring at each other. Towards the last they did nothing else.

ONLY THREE reporters, including myself, regularly covered the White House. We had nothing whatever to do. Occasionally Hoover held a press conference. The trio would walk into his office solemnly and say, "Good morning, Mr. President."

"Good morning," he would reply. "Gentlemen, there is nothing today."

We'd file out. Our footsteps would echo hollowly in the reception room and we'd return to our interminable rummy games with the agents of the secret service. Hoover finally gave up press conferences altogether.

Towards the end of Hoover's regime, the occupants of the White

On Anything

House press room got a break in their routine. Hoover had numerous gigantic office buildings being erected for government use, and we had to follow him on his corner-stone laying expeditions. He was an expert stonemason.

Never once did he splatter any cement on his double-breasted blue serge suit. So be it.

I fear the White House press room, which hasn't seen a dull moment since 1933, is about to become the scene again of some of the lengthiest tournaments in the history of chess.

SUN DUE TO COME OUT OF HIDING

Rain was falling on Mansfield today—a cold, steady drizzle from overcast skies which covered most of Ohio.

The weatherman gloomily predicted more rain tonight, but cheered up a bit when he discovered that the sun—hidden since election day—might make an appearance tomorrow. It'll be somewhat cooler tomorrow, too, he forecast.

Hayesville reported 16 of an inch of rain during the 24 hour period ending at 8 a. m. today. The high yesterday was 61 degrees, and the low last night was 44.

6TH ANNUAL 'BATTLE OF CENTURY' SCHOOLBOY CLUBS PLAY SWAN SONG

SPORTS ROUND UP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Irish, Army At Odds Again

WEST POINT, N. Y.—(AP)—Although you can't pin it down to any definite words, you get the idea up here that Earl (Red) Blaik, the Army coach, is more than a trifle annoyed at the brawling tactics adopted by his rival, Frank Leahy, in leading up to Saturday's tussle at Yankee stadium.

Leahy flatly predicted an Army victory the other day, but no matter how often he's asked, Red won't give out a forecast. . . . Red isn't a guy to weep unnecessarily, nor is he given to over-enthusiasm. In fact, you might think he's a cold fish until you realize that he's a man who takes football as a serious business and who calculates the possibilities of victory and defeat just as a business man might calculate profits and losses.

By CARL LUNDQUIST
NEW YORK—(UP)—That "meetin' of the unbeaten" coming up Saturday between Army and Notre Dame in Larry MacPhail's Bronx baseball emporium, turned out today to be the sixth annual "battle of the century."

Without belittling the ballyhoo that has preceded this climactic clash and without trying to knock down the cost of a pair of 50-yard line seats to a pair of 50-dollar bills, it must be emphasized that for the past five years Army vs. Notre Dame has been D-day on the gridiron.

Four times since 1941 these robust rivals have gone into the game unbeaten. And in the other two years the records of each seemed impressive enough to merit advance billing as the "game of games." So what happened?

But when it comes to predictions, Blaik indicated rather plainly yesterday that his Army squad wouldn't take kindly to tears shed for publicity purposes. "It's a team of great character and considerable pride," he added. "They wouldn't like it if I said they'd lose."

Except in 1941 when the teams bopped each other about all afternoon and wound up in a 0 to 0 tie, the results have been about as exciting as boxing's "battle of the century" between Joe Louis and Billy Conn, which co-incidentally or not happened to be staged in that same sporting palace.

WEST POINT AND POINTS WEST

Army already is looking ahead to next season when the last remnants of the 1944 and 1945 championship teams will have departed. . . . Bobby Stuart, probably the best running back after Glenn Davis, won't be used this season because of the eligibility question. The same goes for other promising newcomers, including Tackle Russ Doherty, whose brother moved from Tennessee to the pro Giants. . . . "Doherty didn't make the first team so we didn't want to take up a year's eligibility as a sub," Blaik explains.

Latest NCAA figures show Notre Dame is first in total offense and in rushing but no Irish player is among the first 20 individuals in either list.

Garry Schumacher, New York newspaperman, has become assistant to Horace Stoneham, the Giants' president; Arthur Mann, former newspaper and magazine writer, has taken a similar job with the Dodgers' Branch Rickey. Could you say they'd rather be president than write?

Welter King Wins Fight the Hard Way

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson, king of the welters although he doesn't wear the official crown, today had a sore hand, an aching jaw, something more than $12,500, and his 49th kayo victory in 75 professional fighters.

He picked up all these items last night as he flattened Artie Levine, Brooklyn middleweight, in 2:41 of the 10th round at the arena before a crowd of 12,102 which paid Ohio's greatest indoor fistic gate of $83,171.98.

The New York Negro fighting machine won this one the hard way. He dug himself out of the resin after being floored for a nine count in the fourth stanza by a rapier-like left hook to the jaw, weathered a couple of other flurries and then battered his foe into helplessness with only 19 seconds to go.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT
CLEVELAND—Ray "Sugar" Robinson, 150, New York, knocked out Artie Levine, 159½, Brooklyn, 10.
DAYTON—Eddie Miller, 159, Dayton, knocked out Bennie Droll, 162, Peoria, 4.

Lujack Suffers Injury to Ankle

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — (AP) — All of Notre Dame's skyrocketing hopes for revenge on the Army after two long years of waiting, rested today on one sprained ankle.

This was the ailing right ankle of Johnny (the wing) Lujack, who quarterbacked the Irish to their last gridiron win over the Cadets back in '43.

Johnny hurt his ankle yesterday as the final full dress drill for Saturday's super colossal clash with the Cadets in New York was just about winding up on Carter field, and only a couple of hours after teammates elected him and Halfback Gerry Cowling as the Army game co-captains.

Five Quints Join Commercial Loop

Five teams entered the Commercial "B" basketball league last night at the YMCA.

Johnny Fike, "Y" physical director, signed Ohio Public Service, Dominion Electric, Shelby Merchants, Phalanx Fraternity and Banker's association. Lantz Mill and Veteran's Administration may enter.

League play will open on December 4 and November 27 is the deadline for entry fees and 12-man eligibility lists.

SCHOOLBOY CLUBS PLAY SWAN SONG

Swan song of the 1946 high school football season is near at hand with Mansfield Senior playing its last home game Friday and the Madison Rams wrapping up their schedule Saturday night.

The Tygers of Coach Paul Snyder, still in the midst of one of their most successful seasons, entertain Youngstown Rayen in the annual homecoming fracas tomorrow. The Bengals have won five, lost one and tied two and engage Martins Ferry after the Rayen collision.

Appropriate ceremonies are being planned for pre-game and half-time tomorrow and the smart Tiger marching band promises to come up with some new formations. Queen Betty Long will be crowned at a giant student pep rally tomorrow afternoon and will be presented at the game.

Final workout is scheduled for this afternoon with Snyder sending the Bengals through a snappy signal drill.

Ralph Majors, who scored his sixth touchdown against Walte, now ranks as the leading Tiger ground-gainer, passer and receiver. He rolled for 91 yards last week to pass injured Kenny Horvath in the totting department. He has 605 yards in 101 carries for an average of 5.9.

Majors has 36 points compared to 65 for Horvath. He grabbed another Ollie Cline aerial to boost his receivership to nine for 158 yards. Hard-driving Ralph has thrown eight passes and completed four for 152 yards.

Madison will be after its fifth straight victory and sixth of the campaign against Millersburg Saturday night on the Ram gridiron. Coach Jeff DeHaven's club has won five and lost two this season and holds down second place in the Northwestern Buckeye league.

Millersburg has yet to win a league contest and is not given much chance against the Rams who are in their best collective physical condition of the campaign. Saturday's tilt will be the last grid engagement for 13 of the Rams.

Shelby Whippets can gain undisputed possession of first place in the Northern Ohio league by toppling Crestline tomorrow night on Shelby field. The Whippets of Coach Al Fendrick are heavy favorites.

Carpenter 11 Takes Grade School Title

Carpenter won undisputed possession of first place in the southern division of the elementary school touch football league by blasting Brinkerhoff, 35-0, yesterday afternoon on the Johnny Appleseed gridiron.

Carpenter rolled up three TD's in the opening period and added single scores in the third and fourth periods. Schaefer, halfback, tallied three six-pointers and added two extra points.

West Fifth tied Newman for the northern title last night. The West Fifth gridders nipped Bushnell, 13-0, while Newman tied Bowman, 7-7.

Both teams had perfect records up to their 0 to 0 tie in 1941. Army had run up 79 points against 33 in winning four games while Notre Dame had scored 142 to 27 in winning five games.

That this year's game should be regarded as even is perhaps the only new feature. In both 1945 and 1944, Army was a two touchdown favorite, while in 1943, 1942 and 1941, the pre-game odds were on Notre Dame. This year Army has won seven games, scoring 208 points to 55. Notre Dame has won five, scoring 177 to 18.

The odds-makers can't figure out which team is going to win but a lot of them can't help but feel that it will be a runaway. That's because football history has a habit of repeating itself.

First Call Issued for Shelby Whippets 1946 Court Practice

SHELBY—Coach Charles Williams has issued the first call for basketball candidates at Shelby high school for Nov. 11. The opening week of drill will be used to sift the varsity squad from the reserve squad and for conditioning practice. Most of the players will be in good condition from the football season that closes Friday night with the Whippets entertaining Crestline.

Three veterans from last year's varsity squad will be back this winter. They are Dick Setz, Bill Lucas and Dave Connelly.

The Whippet schedule opens Nov. 26 with Fostoria here. League schools to be played include Norwalk, defending champion; Upper Sandusky, Crestline, Bucyrus, Galion, Bellevue and Willard.

Although most of the league schools are met on a home and home basis, only the official league game will count toward the official standings.

The complete Whippet cage schedule for the 1946-47 season follows with official league games capitalized.

Nov. 26, Fostoria; Dec. 3, at Mansfield Madison; Dec. 6, at Galion; Dec. 10, at Willard, Dec. 13, Bucyrus, Dec. 20, at UPPER SANDUSKY

Jan. 3, at Ashland, Jan. 10, WILLARD; Jan. 14, at Bucyrus, Jan. 17, Crestline, Jan. 24, Guards At Night.

MIAMI FLA. —(P)— Miami University of Oxford, O., with a squad of 46 players, rested at Miami Beach today in preparation for their "confusion bowl" game tomorrow night with the University of Miami Hurricanes in the Orange bowl stadium.

The Ohioans flew in late last night and planned a light workout tonight on Flamingo field at the beach.

Bix Says Pitt's Plenty Rugged

COLUMBUS —(P)—Some Ohio State football followers may be taking Saturday's invasion by the Pitt Panthers lightly, but Coach Paul Bixler of the Bucks is not one of them.

In fact, after 800 Ohio State Journal Quarterbacks' club members heard Bixler talk last night, many came away with the impression that if football games were just a little lighter the boys from the Smoky City would be undefeated and untied.

"As far as we are concerned," Bixler said, "there's only one game on our schedule—Pitt."

Declaring that he was "not at all sure" how Saturday's game would come out, Bixler added that he was assured "we'll have a sockem attitude and aggressiveness."

Warned by Scout Floyd Stahl that the heavy Pitt line will be hard to move, Bixler worked his squad yesterday with an emphasis on blocking and ending the boys from the first stiff scrimmage of the week.

All of the Bucks first three teams are expected to be ready physically for Saturday's game, although third string Guard Bob McGinnis of Wyoming is doubtful because of an ankle sprain. It has been four weeks since Ohio State injuries were so few.

Line Coach Ernie Godfrey, who also instructs the place-kickers, worked with Max Schnittker of Sandusky yesterday, and the 299-pound tackle is expected to relieve Johnny Stungis in attempting Ohio State conversions Stungis missed five of his last 11 tries in the Minnesota and Northwestern games.

Miller and Weaver Win Amateur Bouts

MARION—Art Miller and Tom Weaver, Friendly House amateurs, won decisions in the amateur fight show at Marion last night.

Miller, 158, defeated Cliff Graham, 155, Mt. Vernon, in the top slugfest on the card while Weaver, 176, copped a close decision from Oliss Lavetta, 172, Marion. Darrell Murton, 148, Marion, edged Dick Bohland, F-H welter, and Paul Richardson, Marion, took a disputed decision over Eddie Knapp, F-H lightweight.

A bout between Kenny Berry, F-H, and David Booker, Marion, was called no contest. Trainers were Max Miller, Joe Zimmermann, Paul Carbeta and Al Spritts.

The Cornell-Syracuse football series dates back to 1891, but had a 33-year lapse from 1900 to 1933.

Brother Acts

In league play Shelby has won five and tied one while Crestline has broken even in six starts. A Crestline win would leave Shelby tied with the defending championship Upper Sandusky eleven. The latter team has won five, lost one and tied one.
Upper Sandusky entertains an undefeated Carey powerhouse tomorrow night in a non-league fracas. In other non-loop frays Bellevue plays host to Port Clinton, Norwalk travels to Oberlin, Willard entertains New London and Gallon meets Ashland on the former club's field.

Ashland, still smarting from a surprise loss at the hands of Port Clinton, 13-7, last Friday, should notch win No. 7 against Gallon. The A's missed a golden opportunity to duplicate a won-lost record established by the 1910 Ashland team. The outfit won eight and lost one and all the '46 edition needed was wins over Port Clinton and Gallon.
Nine Gallon players will see their last high school grid action. They are Lynn and Don Heskett, Jim Fendrick, Don Rogers, Joe McManes, Herbert Helfrich, Jim Ventrone, Richard Beck, Vincent Decain and Kenneth Stringfellow.

Truck Tires to run 100,000 Miles

This goal of performance for truck tires has been set by Mansfield's chemists, engineers and tire craftsmen. But once a tire leaves the manufacturer with maximum performance built into it, its future rests on the kind of treatment it receives from the user.

By maintaining proper air pressure, avoiding overloading, careful matching where dual tires are used, and by following other proven sound practices in tire usage, many truck and bus owners already are approaching this new goal in mileage with Mansfield-built tires.

Four Famous Brands

MANSFIELD CENTURY RICHLAND UNITED

These tires offer truck owners better performance and lower tire mileage costs. They are distributed by leading wholesalers serving thousands of independent tire dealers in principal cities and towns throughout the United States.

Harrison Leads North, South Open

PINEHURST, N. C. (AP)—Fifty-one contestants, survivors of an original field of 171 and including most of golf's top professionals, teed off today in the 36-hole finals of the 45th annual north and south open golf tournament with Dutch Harrison of Little Rock, Ark., leading by a stroke.

Harrison posted a four-under par 68 yesterday for a 36-hole total of 140 on the country club's 6,879-yard number two course and a one stroke lead over veteran Mike Turnesa of White Plains, N. Y.
Henry Ransom of Illinois, who deadlocked with three others for eighth place with 145, registered a hole-in-one on the par three, 186-yard 17th hole, which he hit iron to the green, with the ball rolling about six feet into the cup.

Impressive Record
KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Bob Neyland, back at the University of Tennessee football coaching helm after five years in the Army, had a record of 118 victories against 14 losses and eight ties before opening of the 1946 season—his 15th at Tennessee.

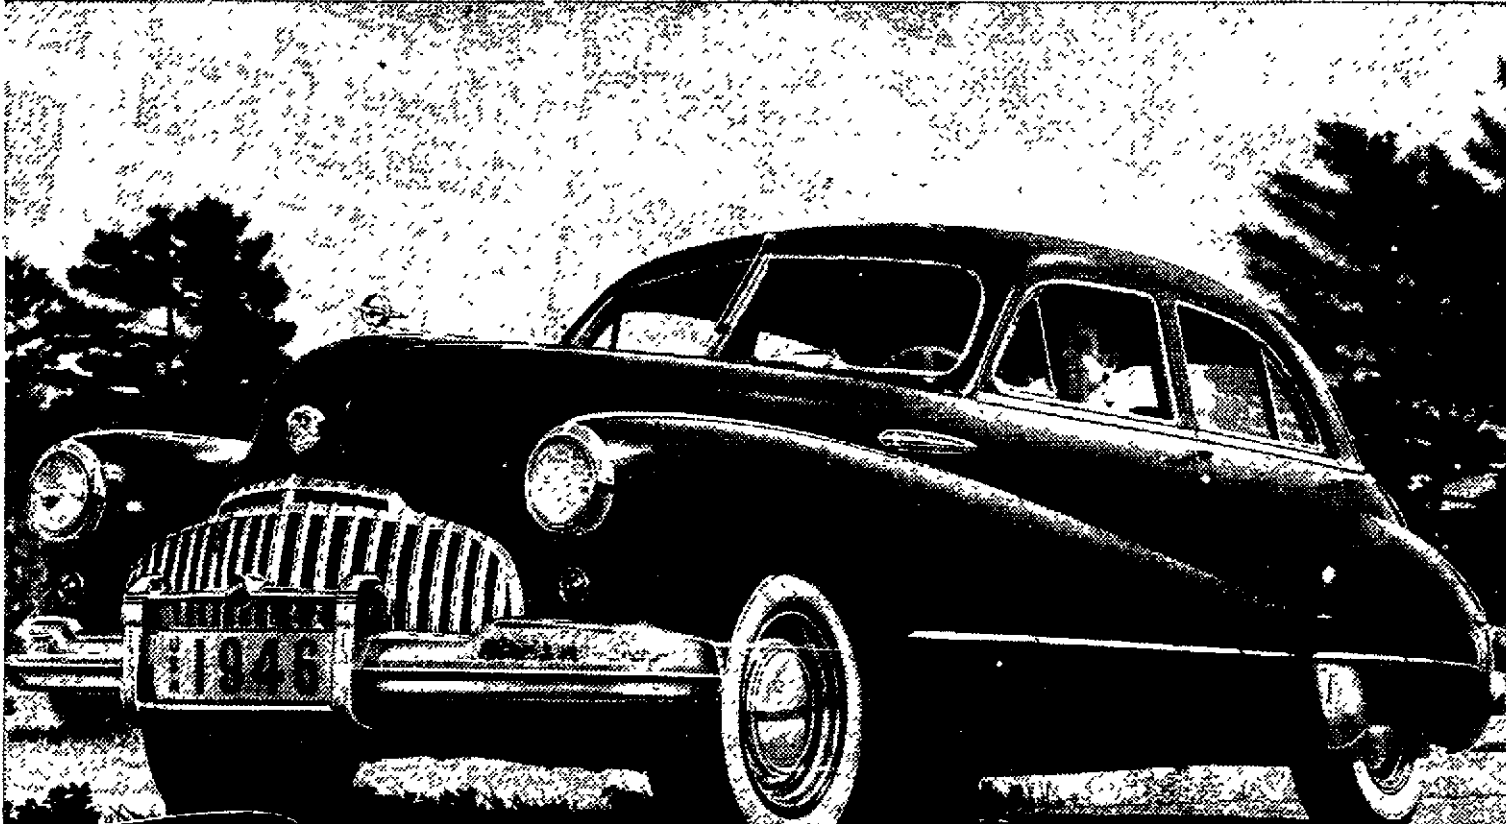

FEARS AND SUPERSTITIONS

● Ferocious in his paint, feathers, and horns, weird in his ceremonial dance, the medicine man once played on the superstitions and fears of his victims to sell his snake oil, resurrection brew, and all-healing ointment. He more often killed than cured. Such pagan quackery has yielded to science. Research has come to the aid of medical practice and today diagnosis and treatment of disease are on a sound scientific basis. This makes up for a lot!

At long last you slip behind the wheel of your very own Buick.

You look around a minute — straighten your tie — grin a little at the handsome picture you know you must be making.

You turn the key. Step on the starter-treadle. Feel those eight big Fireball cylinders take silken hold.

Easy as a breeze, you slip away in two agile tons of steady-going levelness — and right then and there a lot that was dark is clear.

You see why this car is the most wanted automobile in America today.

You see why this doubles the problem posed by industry-wide slowness of parts and material flow.

You see why Buick production men are gladly putting every waking hour into ceaseless battle against such log-jams, so that they can supply these sweethearts to the greatest possible number.

You see how quickly a wait can be forgotten — when there's something like this at the end of the wait.

What matters is that this is the best Buick yet.

It's available at OPA prices applying at delivery and — though we like to get trade-ins — with or without a car to trade.

Those things add up to the best deal these times afford anywhere.

What Other Car Has So Much That Clicks For Forty-Six!

- SMARTNESS — that sets the style pattern with car-length Airfoil fenders and bolt-on rear wheel shields.
- POWER — from a Buick Fireball valve-in-head straight-eight engine.
- OIL SAVINGS — from non-scuffing Accurite cylinder bores.
- FLASHING ACTION — of Eliteweight pistons.
- STEADINESS — from full-length torque-tube drive in a sealed chassis.
- GLIDING RIDE — from Panhard all-coil springing.
- PROTECTION — of Buick-originate fender-shielding front and rear bumpers.
- SURE FOOTING — of Broadrim wheels.
- CONTROL — through Permi-firm steering.
- CONVENIENCE — of high-leverage StepOn parking brake.
- COMFORT — of soft Foamtex cushions in roomy Body by Fisher.

*Foamtex seat cushions standard on Super and Roadmaster models, available on Special Series at extra cost.

Bachelors Claim Successful Ladies 'Aren't Interested'

BY VIRGINIA MACPHERSON
HOLLYWOOD —(CP)— Having trouble snagging yourselves a husband, ladies? Well, there are 20 men around town who insist it's all your own fault.

Yep, the Hollywood Bachelors' club is at it again. Those same gents who last month named their favorite cats. (And well-known gals they were, too.)

These men would have the world know the reason they're bachelors is because there are so many rich and successful spinsters floating around.

The men say they're willing to take the leap. But the girls aren't. "They're getting along just fine the way we are," moan the bachelors. "And the rest of the unmarried dames in the country are beginning to see things that way, too. All this griping about the husband shortage is just so much baloney. All 20 of us are available. But the ladies aren't interested.

"People like Carmen Miranda, Alice Marble, Anita Colby, and Kate Smith are the ones who're tossing the monkey wrench into the marriage machine," according to the bachelors.

Their ambitious sisters may do a lot of griping about their lack of wedding rings, say these gents. But they don't mean it.

"They take a look at the luxuries the glamorous old maids are wallowing in—their minks and

HOPE EXPRESSED FOR IMPROVED FOREIGN POLICY

NEW YORK —(CP)— Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg predicted today that American foreign policy would show early and "substantial improvement."

The veteran lawmaker and the man termed number two in United States affairs since Tuesday's sweeping Republican victory said flatly:

"We will speak with new authority. Our visitors from overseas have been given a very telling lesson of American democracy in action."

He made it clear that he was referring to the outcome of the national elections and their direct result on international affairs. He refused to elaborate on his "substantial improvement" declaration, however, adding with a grin:

"I'm not drawing any pictures yet." But then he said: "The situation is improved."

Vandenberg both in New York and in an earlier statement issued in Detroit said that he remained in complete accord with present American bi-partisan tactics in handling of foreign policy, particularly on the highest conference levels.

Vandenberg was emphatic in his feeling that the elections had given "our visitors" a mindful lesson in both the spirit and determination of American voters.

He said wryly: "Some of them may find it a little hard to understand."

Despite his overnight leap to new domestic and international prominence, the certainty of his being next chairman of the influential senate foreign affairs committee and the linking of his name with the 1948 GOP presidential ticket, Vandenberg returned to New York unheralded and unmet.

He flew to the empire city, scene of both the United Nations and conference of foreign ministers meetings, from Grand Rapids, Mich., where he cast his ballot in the elections.
